LEFTY MUST STAY IN BED

By WALTER KILEY

Gloom returned to the Red Sox camp this morning.

Dr. Eddie O'Brien, after another examination of Lefty Grove's salary wing, said the Lonaconing Lancer must remain in his St. Elizabeth hospital bed for at least another day and in all probability for several days longer.

Grove's slight improvement of late yesterday had disappeared, and the arm was virtually the same as it was when he was rushed to the hospital.

Dr. O'Brien said:

"The pulse beat which returned yesterday with almost regularity had today become very faint. The deadness and tiredness remain in the arm.

"I wouldn't think of letting Grove leave the hospital for another day at least, until we find out just what has caused the arm to react in the manner in which it has today. In all probability Grove will be kept in the hospital for several days more rather than take any unnecessary chances.'

Grove continued to be optimistic. He assured his Red Sox teammates that the strange malady which had stricken him will soon be gone, and that he would again take his turn on the mound. He refused to believe that anything was wrong with his "sling-shot."

Kennedy, Grace Story Is Denied

Kathleen Kennedy, the comely daughter of Boston's "Joe" Kennedy, U. S. ambassador to England, won't be linked romantically with Joseph Peter Grace, 24-year-old heir to a shipping fortune.

This was the word today from U. S. embassy sources in London when it was reported young Grace was en route to England aboard the Normandie to ask Kathleen's hand.

In denying the rumor of Kathleen's and Joseph's soon-to-be engagement an embassy official said:

"That's an old story."

Stock Leaders Resume Climb

NEW YORK, July 16 (AP)—Stocks displayed further rising inclinations in today's early market proceedings.

At a rather quiet opening gains running to $1 a share were registered for Chrysler, Anaconda, Bethlehem Steel, U. S. Steel, U. S. Rubber, N. Y. Central, Sears Roebuck, duPont and Kennecott.

American Telephone was an exception with a loss of more than $1.

SAMUEL INSULL DIES IN PARIS SUBWAY TRAIN

PARIS, July 16 (AP)—Samuel Insull, 78, fallen $4,000,000,000 ruler of a midwest utilities empire, died suddenly early this afternoon.

Officials said he collapsed in a subway train from a heart attack.

Insull was taken by subway employes to the nearby Paul-Marmottan Emergency Hospital in the Etoile district.

Mrs. Insull, in a state of collapse when she reached the hospital, said that when she left their hotel apartment at noon the aging magnate told her he was going to write a few letters and then go to lunch.

"I had told him never to take a subway because it was bad for his heart," she said weeping.

"Now I am utterly lost," she said. "To think that I saw him just this morning and talked with him."

First reports when the former financier's body was brought to the hospital said he had been killed in the street by a hit-and-run driver.

CABLES TO SON

Police, however, said a heart ailment from which he had suffered for several years had proved fatal.

After collapsing when she saw the body, Mrs. Insull received restoratives and then at once sent a cable to her son, Samuel, Jr.

Armed Jews To End Riots

JERUSALEM, July 16 (AP)—Authorities armed residents of a Jewish village and erected a machine gun emplacement at the entrance to Jerusalem's old city today in the latest British moves to end 12 days of racial terrorism.

Kiriath Eliahu, a suburb of Haifa, where inhabitants are mostly French, was supplied with rifles and ammunition following representations of the French consulate general.

The center of terror again shifted to Jerusalem with the killing of 12 and wounding of at least 29 in a bomb explosion among Arab peasants in David street market place. Casualties have totaled at least 372 since Arab-Jewish racial troubles flared anew.

King George Able To Take a Walk

WINSOR, Eng., July 16 (AP)—King George was recovered sufficiently from his attack of influenza to go for a walk in the royal lodge grounds today.

The government announced nine destroyers and 18 planes would escort King George and Queen Elizabeth when they embark from Dover in the admiralty yacht Enchantress for their state visit to France Tuesday.

Suicide's Bones Found in Woods

ATHOL, July 16—A skeleton, skull shattered, was uncovered in the dense woods near Wendell, state police learned today, but after closer examination a pistol was found in the brush near the right hand.

Medical Examiner Albert C. Leach of Orange pronounced the case a suicide. He said the victim was apparently a man of middle age and had been dead for about two years.

law-makers saw the Governor write into law their $3,000,000 work relief program and the supplementary budget totalling $1,843,243.

HAD DIVIDED FUNDS

The Governor had sought to compromise on the final disputed $5,500,000 by distributing $2,000,000 to the general fund and equally dividing $3,500,000 between the State Department of Public Works and cities and towns for local administration.

Republicans fought through to the finish to appropriate the entire $5,500,000 to the towns and cities.

In bitter last minute speeches, John F. Aspell, Democratic leader, and Speaker Horace Cahill, Republican, blamed opposing parties for failure to compromise.

CAHILL WON'T SURRENDER

Cahill surrendered the speaker's chair to answer. He said he would not surrender to the State Department of Works, a department "still under investigation."

Republicans declared they would approve nothing to increase the state tax over $13,000,000.

Hurley charged that his opponents were not as much concerned over the method of "using an available $5,500,000 for relief" as they were "in opposing a state tax of $17,000,000."

RECORD SPENDING

Addition of the work relief funds and the supplementary budget has brought the spending program thus far enacted to $76,574,965, an all-time high.

The marathon session nearly equalled the record session last year of 25 hours and 20 minutes. Opinion was divided when adjournment closed as to the final outcome next week — or, next month—of the altie etween the executive and legislative departments.

While leaders strove throughout the night to reach agreement, other members completed an evening of celebration unprecedented within the halls of Massachusetts' State House.

The legislators believed prorogation would come eventually and made the most of it with dancing, singing, horseplay in night club fashion.

Without doubt, it was the merriest session since repeal.

More than one "jitterbug" was discovered in legislative ranks as the jubilant members wiled away the time dancing on stone corridors to the tunes of a band made up of Capitol messenger boys.

Even the governor's council was on hand to join in the merriment. They arrived at 9 o'clock last night, confident that the deadlock would soon be broken.

REPUBLICAN SETBACK

The early program passed by Republicans in both branches would send $2,800,000 to the department of public works, give $5,500,000 to the cities and towns and give $200,000 to the Metropolitan District Commission. The measure would dispose of $8,500,000, all the money remaining in the state highway fund.

But here the Republicans received their first real setback of the day and night for Governor Hurley promptly vetoed their efforts.

In his veto message the governor said:

1—That the item contained in said section is unconstitutional, according to an opinion rendered me by the attorney-general.

2—This item fails in any way to afford any immediate relief for the unemployed.

ROW OVER VETO

Gov. Hurley also vetoed a bill which would have a far-reaching effect on the civil service of the state.

The bill provided that temporary employes to state departments could not be made permanent employes until and unless they had taken civil service examinations on the same basis as other applicants.

The Legislature refused to accept the veto and warned the governor they will seek redress in the courts. The bill was passed five days ago and according to their interpretation of the law should have been vetoed before midnight to be killed. They assert that the bill automatically became law at midnight.

Early in the evening, the House had passed the supplementary budget recommended by the ways and means committe with only two changes.

These were an added $65,000 for an underpass of the Old Colony parkway at Columbia road and a $60,000 traffic circle at West Roxbury parkway and Center street.

The Senate promptly killed both bills and then immediately inserted a $500,000 item for a soldiers' home in Chelsea. The House refused to concur and a committee on conference went to work, giving the boisterous members a chance for further play.

A second committee was pressed into action, but two hours later the House voted down the $500,000.

New Haven Probe Voted

The Legislature voted an investigation of the New Haven Railroad, to be financed by a $5000 appropriation, during the all-night session.

The resolve for the probe was sponsored in the House and at first defeated in the Senate. A few hours later the Senate on reconsideration approved the probe, 25 to 14.

Office Break In Milk St.

The watchman of a Milk street insurance building was held for questioning today after police investigated his explanation of a break and a series of office ransackings.

Milk street police were called by the watchman early today to find him stumbling about the building.

He told them he had been drugged by three men he met in a nearby restaurant and forced to let them in the building.

The watchman said he then lost consciousness from dope and knew nothing until he came to and found a number of third floor offices broken into. He also told authorities the trio had robbed him of $21 of his pay.

Police called occupants of the building to learn what had been taken.

in Geneva, Ill., notifying him of his father's death.

Insull only last Monday reached Paris, which four years ago was the first stop on his dramatic cross-Europe flight to evade embezzlement charges growing out of collapse of his utilities empire in 1932.

This time he was on a pleasure trip to visit Mrs. Insull.

In March, 1935, Insull was acquitted of the charge as he was four months earlier of mail fraud charges which came to trial after he had been returned from a refuge in Turkey.

Since acquittal the white-haired Insull had engaged only sporadically in business activities.

He made frequent trips to Paris. He was physically active despite his years.

Willed Million

6 Years Before His Birth

CHICAGO, July 16 (AP)—A will drawn six years before he was born has made a millionaire of Jason Paige, Jr., 28, and a bachelor.

Paige, an advertising man, learned yesterday that his great-aunt had bequeathed him a $1,000,000 trust fund 34 years ago.

The great-aunt was Mrs. Ada Sawyer Garrett, a recluse and member of a pioneer Chicago family. She died June 18. Her will disposed of a $2,250,000 estate.

Mrs. Garrett, who was sometimes called Chicago's "Hetty Green" because of her eccentricities and astute management of her fortune, was the granddaughter of Justin Butterfield, who once defeated Abraham Lincoln for Illinois land commissioner.

WOMAN SAVED AT SEA

Shifted From Ship for Operation

From the passenger-freighter Scanyork, well-known in Boston shipping circles, flashed today with dramatic brevity two messages telling of the desperate battle to save the life of a young woman.

They recounted the emergency shifting of the woman from one ship to another so that she might be given surgical treatment without which she might die, and told of the battle in the Scanyork's operating room to pull her through a critical ordeal.

The first of the messages, both of which were signed by Capt. H. P. Frank, read:

"Took on board Mr. and Mrs. Opsahl from Norwegian steamer Bidevind, Operating on Mrs. Opsahl for ruptured ectopic pregnancy. Will inform you as soon as possible results."

Later Capt. Frank radioed his line:

"Very successful blood transfusion performed by Dr. Harry Metzger of Pittsburgh, ship's doctor and officers."

Dr. Metzger is one of 78 passengers on the Scanyork. The ship's surgeon is Dr. Rudolph Mueller. The Scanyork sailed July 8 and is due at Gothenberg, Sweden, next Wednesday. No information on the Opsahls was immediately available.

Is She Hughes' Katie Now?

La Hepburn Bridal Talk

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

International News Service Special Correspondent

NEW YORK, July 16—Katie Hepburn, the freckled genius with the cockney accent, is the "I-can-do-without-men" type.

Howard Hughes, the beanpole speed-flier with the shy smile, is the "love-'em-and-leave-'em" type.

Their romance, unannounced, unadmitted and uncharacterized by public appearances and hand-holding, has been on and off the front pages for more than a year now, with no denials from those concerned—and no admissions.

But, argue the amateur cupids, wasn't it an admission of something when Howard, tired, unshaken, haggard-looking, dying for sleep at the end of his world flight, raced up to Katie's front door as saan as he could elude his welcomers?

WEDDING BELLS

If it wasn't love, what was his hurry?

And if it was love, what will happen? Will they marry? Each has been married once, although Hughes is generally thought of as an eligible bachelor and Kate as a confirmed bachelor girl. But friends recall the tall Texan saying three years ago:

"I'm not a confirmed bachelor. I think I'll be married one of these days."

Certainly the girls tried to help him out with that ambition. Pretty girls, rich girls, society girls, glamor girls. He was smiled at and ogled by the girls who took his hat in nightclub checkrooms, and the girls who wore his orchids.

SHOWED HE HAD "IT"

Girls made no secret of his attraction for them; they defied their parents, they fololwed him around, they called him up, they did everything but announce their betrothal to him—and one of them did that!

Howard liked them all right. He took them to the movies, danced with them, bought them steaks for lunch and champagne for supper, and occasionally got worked up enough about a pair of blue eyes, or the way a girl rhumbaed to fly to Newport or Florida to see her.

But they never quite caught him. He always became elusive at the psychological moment. He never—after that brief marriage when he was only 19—got hooked.

He had one observation to make about women which might explain why some of the lovelorn dream girls failed to make more than a slight dent in his highly eligible heart.

"I can't stand the ga-ga type of girl," Howard admitted. "A woman has to have something in her mind to be attractive."

Arlens, 'Ideal' Mates, Separate

HOLLYWOOD, July 16 (INS)—After enjoying the reputation of being one of the most "ideally married couples in Hollywood," for 12 years, Richard Arlen, screen actor and golfer, and the former Jobyna Ralston, actress, were temporarily separated today.

Arlen was reported at sea aboard his yacht Dijo, while Mrs. Arlen and their 5-year-old son were at the Arlen home here.

Mrs. Arlen revealed "the ideal couple" had separated last week, but that it wasn't permanent—as yet.

"It is to be a trial separation," she said. "It will be for six months, and I hope that conditions by the end of that time will have adjusted themselves."

Their separation surprised the film colony, as friends have always thought the marriage, which took place in 1926, was a "lasting combination."

Before going aboard his yacht, Arlen expressed regrets over the separation.

"I'm sorry to say news of the separation is true after all these years," he said, "but both Jobyna and I hope it will be temporary. We thought that by parting we could better solve our marital difficulties."

JACK DUNN
Dead With Stardom Near

HOLLYWOOD, July 16 (AP)—Death cheated Jack Dunn, British champion ice skater, of the film role for which he had waited two years.

The 21-year-old captain of the British 1936 Olympic skating team was dead today of tularemia, a rare disease spread by rabbits, as he was scheduled to start his first picture.

Coming here after the Berlin games, he was signed by Universal, and later by Paramount. But while Sonja Henie, with whom he appeared in skating exhibitions, rose to stardom Dunn remained idle.

Recently he signed with Edward Small Productions and was cast in the leading role of "The Duke of West Point." Upon its completion he was to have played Rudolph Valentino in a picturization of the late movie idol's life.

He was stricken two weeks ago with what physicians diagnosed as a streptococcus infection. Yesterday laboratory tests disclosed his ailment was tularemia.

Riley in Denial Tells of Threat

An emphatic denial was made today by Frank E. Riley, director of the commercial vehicle division of the state public utilities department, to charges of bribery and protection lodged by Samuel Becker, Cambridge trucking official.

"Becker bragged he would 'get' me," Riley declared, "when I refused to overlook his company's violation. This is his attempt to make good that boast, but I have the witnesses to disprove his charges."

The state director had entered similar denials just before a hearing of the public utilities commissioners adjourned until Tuesday.

After a day of testimony in which Becker testified he had paid a total of $2800 in bribes and had been asked by Riley to take Dan Carroll into partnership for "protection," Riley branded the charges as "ridiculous."

DENIAL BY CARROLL

Daniel J. Carroll, well-known sportsman, appeared as a voluntary witness to deny he had ever met or seen Becker.

Riley was placed on the stand by his attorney, Francis E. Rafter of Salem. He testified he issued a permit to Becker's company in August, 1935, and that Becker was summonsed before him on violations in May, 1936. After hearings, he said, he suspended Becker's license for two weeks.

Riley also denied he had ever talked with former Governor James M. Curley about the matter. Earlier, Attorney William I. Schell, Becker's counsel, said he and Riley had conferred with Curley and that Riley had promised to do what he could.

Schell stated h later told Riley he was "a dirty skunk for double-crossing the governor."

TELLS OF TROUBLE

Questioned by Rafter concerning trauble with Becker's company, Riley stated:

"I have had more trouble with Becker than with all the other trucking companies in the state."

Riley testified that Becker came to him one day and asked if Schell had paid him $800 to intercede with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"I told him no," Riley testified. "Then Becker said that Schell had been a bloodsucker on him for a long time."

During the day, Becker stated on the stand that Riley had first suggested money to him as a means of ending his difficulties. The truckman insisted he had paid Riley $1000 first and later $500 more and then $200 additional to "fix things."

BANNED PARTNER

Under cross-examination by Rafter, he admitted that he had not complained to the utilities commission or informed former Governor Ely, who represented him at the permit hearings until two weeks ago.

Becker said Carroll had been broached as one who could give him "protection" for his oil trucks, but that he refused to take a partner, who was not going to put in any money, into a $175,000 business.

40 Solons Put on CIO Blacklist

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—Labor's non-partisan league, headed by CIO chieftain John L. Lewis, put 40-odd Congress members on a "blacklist" today and marked them for defeat.

The opposition, it was indicated, was based chiefly on the candidates' stand on the wage-hour bill. The list included a majority of the House rules committee which kept that measure pigeon-holed for many months.

It was the committee, too, which spiked Lewis' attempt to force through Congress in the closing hours of last session a contractor "blacklisting" bill.

The CIO leader went to the Capitol twice to exert personal pressure for passage of the measure and, frustrated, asserted angrily that there would be reprisals at the polls.

The list accentuated also the split, politically as well as on unionization views, between the Committee for Industrial Organization and the American Federation of Labor.

It included names of several men whom the AFL has endorsed. Among these were Senator Adams (D) of Colorado, and Lonergan (D) of Connecticut, and Representatives Sumners (D) of Texas and Lamneck (D) of Ohio.

Four Held, Hunt Fifth in Knifing

Police of the Warren avenue station were holding four men while a fifth was being scought today for the stabbing of Thomas E. Goggin, of South Boston, an investigator in the office of District Attorney William E. Foley.

Goggin, a former Boston election commissioner, told police he was attacked by five men following an argument at Essex and Washington streets.

At City Hospital Goggin was treated for wounds in the chin and left shoulder blade.

210 Registry Men Seek Auto Drunks

In a new drive an drunken drivers, 210 motor vehicle inspectors stopped thousands of cars in Greater Boston today and will repeat the process tomorrow morning.

Plans for the drive were carried out so secretly only Registrar Goodwin and a few others knew of the move. Greater Boston police co-operated in stopping the cars. Names of scores of drivers were taken.

3 Youths Hurt In Auto Mishap

Three youths were injured today when their sedan was in collision with a trailer truck at Summer and Otis streis.

The injured are William W. Ryan, Argyle street, Everett, Vincent Kelley, Morris street, Everett, and William Rewe, Malverna road, Roslindale. They were treated at the City hospital for bruises.

Ha, Ha for Davey Jones!

John Clements and Edgar Porter, dory mates on the Boston fishing schooner Mary E. O'Hara, were back in Boston today after cheating Davy Jones' locker via the whale route.

The pair, according to their story, were waiting to haul trawls in the South Channel fishing grounds when a whale rose to blow, brushing their dory and becoming entangled in the buoy line.

The mammal, frightened, raced off to sea, pulling the dory at express train speed.

Though it careened and bobbed, it failed to upset and the fishermen were saved when the buoy line parted.

Rides in Glory

RENDEZVOUS WITH FAME—Howard Hughes, Public Hero No. 1, receives the plaudits of a worshipful New York as he rides past cheering throngs. His smile is one of half-embarrassment. Habitually careless about clothes, he hasn't "spruced up" for this big date with glory.

Hughes Seeks Seclusion at Friend's Home

NEW YORK, July 16 (INS)—Bewildered by the city's tremendous acclaim, which to his self-effacing nature was more unnerving than any hazard of the air, Howard Hughes found secret refuge today on the secluded Long Island estate of a friend.

The shy hero of the 'round-the-world flight fled in his big red automobile to the estate near Oyster Bay leaving his four companions at a hotel off Central Park, to make their own week-end plans.

Hughes was stunned by the glory and homage paid him by New York as he was carried on the surging crest of cheers from the Battery up the narrow canyon of Broadway to City Hall.

In his modest fashion he tried to submerge himself as merely one of 20 or more men, including his flying companions, technicians and army and navy advisers, who had made the remarkable achievement possible.

But New York would have none of it. The city took him to its heart.

After the welcoming ceremonies were ended crowds followed him wherever he went and, finally, in genuine bewilderment, Hughes sped to Long Island.

The fliers' next probable appearance will be Wednesday night at a celebration dinner given by Grover Whalen, president of the World's Fair, at the Terrace Club on the Fair Grounds.

Dever to Push Fight On Station Closings

With Massachusetts due to lose 88 stations on the Old Colony railroad line tomorrow at midnight, Attorney-General Dever announced today he would seek an appeal from the federal court abandonment grant and, if that fails, carry the case to the highest court in the land.

"If the Circuit Court of Appeals sustains Federal Judge Carroll C. Hincks' ruling in favor of the railroad," Dever said, "I'll carry the matter to the United States Supreme Court."

Meanwhile, thousands of residents of the 88 communities which have been served for years by the Old Colony prepared to seek new means of transportation, assured the line will abide by its earlier decision to abandon the stations Saturday midnight.

Chairman J. Burke Sullivan of the public utilities commission said hearings on the road's abandonment petition before the commission would resume Monday. If the commission should re-order the railroad to re-open them a deadlock would result on jurisdiction, with Massachusetts denying the authority of the federal court to close the stations.

R. I. Clam Digger Found Drowned

PROVIDENCE, July 16 (AP)—Two Barrington youths early today discovered the body of Edward McMahon, 25, of Pawtucket, a clam digger, in seven feet of water off Annawamscutt Beach, Barrington. McMahon had been missing since last evening, when he went to dig clams.

Curiosity Pays

SHELBURNE, July 16 (AP)—The curiosity of Robert Williams today enriched the Shelburne Library $2000.

While scanning property left the library by Miss Fidelia Fiske, an American missionary in Persia in 1850, Williams found three stamps which he thought might be valuable. Two of them from Hawaii brought $2000 in New York.

YD Holds 'Pay Day' Muster

BOURNE, July 16—The Yankee Division's 8000-odd men went through a "pay-roll muster" here today, and then a general inspection of tents, equipment and uniforms.

The "payroll muster" requires the presence of all those receiving pay for participating in the two weeks' maneuvers. Those who fail to appear lose all financial remuneration for their services.

The remainder of the day was scheduled to be spent in leisure, with the barest of maneuvers taking place in the morning. Camp officials were busy preparing final details for tomorrow, "Governor's Day."

Then the camp will be officially dedicated as "Camp Edwards," in honor of General Clarence R. Edwards, war-time commander of the 26th Division.

The camp's entire personnel will be reviewed by Governor Hurley. It is expected between 40,000 and 50,000 persons will witness the event.

Last night members of the 182nd Infantry, the 26th Tank Company and the First Battalion, 182nd Field Artillery, marched in a parade in Sandwich, honoring the town for its support of the Cape Cod camp plan in 1934.

Following the parade there were speeches by General Charles H. Cole, Attorney-General Paul A. Dever and Congressman Charles Gifford. Later in the evening a military ball was held in the Sandwich Casino.

Cape Bars Hicks And Showing of Spanish Film

PROVINCETOWN, July 16—Granville Hicks, newly appointed Harvard University instructor, today was banned in Provincetown in connection with the drive to raise funds for refugees of the Spanish War.

Following a wave of protest against Communist propaganda, parishioners of the Universalist Church voted to postpone indefinitely the entire program at which Hicks was to be a speaker tomorrow.

At the same time, the State public safety committee forbade the showing of the motion picture "Spain in Flames," which was to have been presented at the Artists Theater, in connection with the program.

The Provincetown board of selectmen also condemned the picture and announced they would meet today to bar it at future attempted showings.

"The whole program sounds like Communist propaganda to me," Jesse D. Rogers, chairman of the board, said.

"We won't have any of that here."

CAPE COD SURVEY

A survey of proposed navigation improvements at Bass river harbor on Cape Cod today was ordered by army engineers at Washington.

2 Wounded By Shots in Race Riot

PITTSBURGH, July 16 (AP)—Police restored order today in Pittsburgh's turbulent Northside after a second wild night of street rioting between races that resulted in the wounding by gunfire of a detective, one other man and the arrest of at least 40 persons.

Those under arrest were held for hearings on charges of inciting to riot.

In another outbreak in the Northside's West Park—where police say the ill feeling between the racial groups arose during the summer over use of recreational facilities—one man's skull was fractured.

City Detective Verner Wagner, 49, was shot in a leg as he and other detectives leaped from a police scout car to break up a battling mob. Wounded in the same melee was James Lee Dixon, 21, who was shot in both legs.

The smoldering ill feeling first broke out when bands of youths roamed the district staging clashes in which eight were injured.

WILL RUN AGAIN

STOCKBRIDGE, July 15—Owen Johnson, novelist, today for a second time in two years became a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress. He was defeated two years ago by Congressman Allen T. Treadway (R).

Save Injured Boy on Peak

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, July 16 (INS)—After spending a night in the wind and bitter cold near the summit of 10,009-foot Mt. Olympus, Roger Carney, 24, rendered helpless by a broken leg, was carried to safety today.

With him came Harold Rapp, 23, his companion on the perilous climb of the mountain 12 miles southeast of here. Rapp had remained with him through the night although he, like Carney, wore only light summer clothing to protect him from a biting gale.

A third youth, Brayton White, 24 who had been with them, struggled down the mountain for help and, despite the fact he was suffering from exposure and many bruises, insisted on leading the rescuers back to his injured comrade.

9 Foremen Appear On One WPA Job

HAVERHILL, July 16—City officials today were wondering just why the WPA roadbed project at Lafayette square requires nine foremen for the 50 workmen employed there.

Walter Colby, street department engineer, said the matter was just "one of those mistakes." The foremen, he explained, were put on the job pending their assignment to other projects.

O'Connor Boosts Farley Candidacy

WASHINGTON, July 16 (INS)—Virtually booming Postmaster General James A. Farley for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1940, Rep. John O'Connor, New York chairman of the powerful House rules committee, today warned the Democratic party it must follow a middle-of-the-road "liberalism" to remain in power.

O'Connor addressed his message to a national rally of young Democratic clubs in Seattle.

LOWELL, July 16—Walter Donohoe, 62, of Summer street, Hyde Park, machinist, was in critical condition at St. John's Hospital here today after he collapsed and fell in the path of a Boston train at the railroad station.

Japs, Chinese Talk Treaty

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND

Dean of American War Correspondents

PARIS, July 16 (INS)—Both Japan and China informally are considering a ten to fifteen-year non-aggression pact as point number one in the basic approach to end the Sino-Japanese conflict, according to private information reaching Paris.

This suggestion was made in one of my recent dispatches as opening a vista to peace in the Far East allegedly being studied by Tokyo and also being given a thought in Hankow.

The Japanese, it is said, want non-aggression to include cessation of all anti-Japanese propaganda, whether official or unofficial, in China, and China's co-operation with Japan.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek's basic demand as a prelude to talking peace is cessation of Japanese aggression.

With the fall of Hankow admitted in General Chiang's headquarters as a possible eventuality within the next few weeks, practical minded Chinese are deeply concerned over what the next stage of the war will be.

It is realized that with the fall of Hankow, Chiang loses the Canton-Hankow railway, leaving the Chinese armies cut off 600 miles from the coast.

Russia is aiding the Chinese with many planes, but the Soviet aid is otherwise disappointing, partly because overland motor transport ranges in China from 1500 to 2200 miles where the roads are little more than trails.

Nazi Press Hits Czech 'Insults'

BERLIN, July 16 (INS)—A new Nazi newspaper campaign stressing the "uncompromising" attitude of Czechoslovakia regarding the Sudeten German minority was launched here today.

The official Nazi press agency, Dnb, gave wide publicity to reports that a window of a bookshop in Marienbad, where a photograph of Adolf Hitler was displayed, was spat upon and finally broken.

Czechoslovakian Jews have "thrashed and trampled" Sudetan Germans, the news agency declared, "and have insulted Der Fuehrer."

The situation was further complicated by a report from Linz that a Czech police plane flew over the German border in the vicinity of Sonnwald, Austria.

Berlin Assails 'War Mongers'

BERLIN, July 16 (INS)—Allegations in the London News Chronicle and certain French leftist newspapers regarding Nazi Germany's plans in Spain, Morocco and Portugal, which have caused marked irritation here for several days, drew a semiofficial retort today.

A subsidiary of the official news agency, "Deutscher Dienst," refuted assertions that numerous German planes recently have landed at Bilbao, Spain, and that the Reich has designs upon Portugal.

Japs Are Urged To Use Gold Stores

TOKYO, July 16 (AP)—A resolution urging the Japanese government to use gold and specie reserves to purchase raw materials was adopted today by the Central Price Policy Commission.

Foreign observers called it probably the most ominous sign of financial distress since the conflict in China started a year ago.

Franco Traps 40,000 Foes

HENDAYE, French - Spanish Frontier, Juuly 16 (INS)—Forty thousand Spanish government troops today were reported virtually "marooned" among rugged mountains by the Insurgent advance on the Teruel front.

Insurgent advices said it was likely that most of the men would be able to filter through the lines and escape, but they lacked roads over which to withdraw their fighting equipment, which would fall into the Insurgents' hands.

Insurgent forces reached the outskirts of Barracas today, advancing four miles after terrific fighting in the Sagunto road sector.

Deb in Films Scorns Crash

HOLLYWOOD, July 16—Whitney Bourne, young socialite who scorned a Fifth avenue career to make her way in the movies, was recovering from a shaking up today after her car crashed a telephone pole, knocked down a light standard and ended up against a palm tree.

First reports of the accident said Whitney's car was careening wildly down the street before the smashup. Later Whitney declared she was driving no more than 30 miles an hour and that she had skidded on a wet patch of pavement.

When police arrived at the scene they found the badly damaged car but no driver. Whitney explained she had hopped into a taxi to get to her work at the studio on time.

The young New York society girl was dropped from the social register when she abandoned Gotham's gay salon life for a film career.

N. Y. TO BUCHAREST

DETROIT, July 16 (INS)—Capt. Alex Papana, Rumanian flier-athlete, said today he will take off on his proposed one hop flight from New York to Bucharest Tuesday.

Fugitive Convicts' One Night Out Ends

ENFIELD, Ct., July 6 (INS)—Two fleeing youthful prison farm fugitives, serving 12 to 20 years for robbery, were captured early today by Hudson, N. Y., police after an all-night three-state search, Warden Ralph Walker announced today.

The men, Edward Winski, 27, and Donald Simpson, 28, both of Stamford and partners in a Greenwich drugstore holdup in 1934, fled in a prison beach wagon.

Authorities said they abandoned the car in Southwick, Mass., and forced a Pittsfield auto salesman, Harry Kimber, to drive them across the state. Outside of Pittsfield, Kimber, police said, was ordered from the car and tied to a tree.

Both men were seen walking along the Hudson river by Hudson police, who captured Simpson only to have Winski escape. However, he was captured about three hours later.

Warden Walker and Deputy Burton J. Caswell left for New York to return the convicts.

Board to Probe 'Little Steel'

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—Senate investigators will begin Monday the third year of their sensation-studded search for a formula to protect civil liberties.

The trail has covered traffic in industrial munitions, labor espionage, Harlan County (Ky.) union wars, Chicago's steel strike riot, employer associations and vigilante groups.

Now the two-man investigating committee will examine what it terms the "new technique" of employers in labor warfare, using last summer's little steel" strike as an example.

The committee has asserted that these new devices" constitute a serious threat to the practices and forms of Democracy."

Floods Again Peril Chinese

SHANGHAI, July 16 (AP)—Summer rains, coming close upon spring floods that caused an estimated 150,000 deaths and made 300,000 Chinese homeless in June, presented new perils today in beleaguered Honan Province.

Simultaneously, the Chinese claimed a hit-and-run campaign of guerrilla fighters brought victories over Japanese invaders in south Shantung and north Klangsu Provinces and near Shanghai, and that the situation along the vital Yangtze river continued to favor the Chinese defenders.

Japanese sources reported that the 30-mile motor highway over which Japanese had sent troops and materials between Kaifeng and Lanfeng, in north central Honan, is washed out.

'First Lady' to See Son Jim at Clinic

CHICAGO, July 16 (INS)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was due here by plane today en route to Rochester, Minn., where she will visit her son, James, secretary to the President, who is being treated for gastric ulcers at the Mayo clinic.

Banned by Bald Head Club

BRISTOL, Conn., July 16 (INS)—"They shall not join!"

That battle cry was heard today as party lines formed to vote down any move to remove restrictions against women membership in the Bald Head Club of America, meeting here at Lake Compounce for its 26th annual convention. Certain members are not interested in the feminine boom and pointed out that three years ago the society was literally floored when an applicatin from a woman was received. She said she wanted to be the first of her sex to enroll.

The application was rejected unanimously.

Of primary interest, several members said, is a resolution calling for a U. S. Department of Agriculture grant "to pay for crops of hair which members of the club did not raise."

Roosevelt Ready To Go Fishing As Tour Ends

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

En Route With President Roosevelt in California, July 16 (INS)—Definitely encouraged by the signs he saw of returning prosperity across nearly 3500 miles of train travel, President Roosevelt neared the end of his trans-continental journey today.

He was apparently satisfied to embark upon a month's fishing cruise and leave Washington to do the administration work under the latest New Deal legislation.

One of the President's last official acts was to announce the appointment of Elmer Andrews of New York to be federal administrator of the controversial wage-hour bill.

Of more immediate interest to Californians was the political situation that affects this increasingly important state in national politics.

Roosevelt has spent two days in the state. Today was the third. He had previously urged Senator McAdoo several months ago in a "Dear Mac" letter to run again for the Senate, despite his 75 years. In the two days he has been in California Roosevelt has not publicly endorsed McAdoo, as he did Senator Barkley in Kentucky, and the victorious Elmer Thomas in Oklahoma.

But McAdoo has been at Roosevelt's elbow almost every hour of his stay here, while neither of his opponents showed up. They are Sherida Downey and ex-Judge oJhn W. Preston.

As for the California Democratic gubernatorial nomination, there are six candidates, but Roosevelt thus far has maintained a cool detachment from the claims of all of them.

Tennis Murder Victim Named

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 16 (AP)—Scotland Yard today identified the brunette victim of Wimbledon's gruesome "center court mystery murder" as Mrs. Rosaline Patricia Mullins, known as "Irish Rose."

They issued an urgent appeal for the woman's husband or other relatives to communicate with them.

Beaten and stabbed, her mutilated body was found July 14 in a shady lane beside the famed all-England tennis club where coveted Wimbledon titles are settled.

Scotland Yard said she had married nine years ago and was the mother of two children but had separated from her husband.

Police sought a green van seen parked in the shadowy lane about midnight July 13.

Funds Are Needed To Operate Bridge

State engineers today were without funds to operate Slade's Ferry bridge over the Taunton river, repaired at a cost of $250,000 and scheduled to open again August 1.

They reported the Legislature had cut off $1350 for power, light, fuel and equipment necessary for operation.

Count's Gaiety Won Babs

By ADELA ROGERS ST. JOHNS

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

CHAPTER EIGHT

Count Kurt Haughwitz-Reventlow has bound himself not to see his wife nor to try to go to their former home together unless she wishes it.

In a London court his lawyer said "the count authorizes me to say that, having considered the situation with great care, he is ready to undertake not to return to Winfield House or to communicate with his wife so long as his wife does not desire that.

The amazing drama of Barbara Hutton's life moves on and no one knows quite what the next act will be. A divorce or separaton from her Danish husband seems the inevitable next step.

There is no hint from London of any possible reconciliation. Out of the misunderstanding the Count now says that he hopes only to salvage some share in the education of his son, Lance Haugwitz-Rexentlow.

Where and when and how did this romance, now so sadly disrupted, begin? How was it possible that Barbara Hutton, bitterly disillusioned and deeply wounded by her marriage to Alexis Mdivani, could marry another foreign title?

DELAYED RENO TRIP

Above all things, we in America think daily of her renunciation of her American citizenship and ponder over its cause.

The Mdivani marriage drew to a close. After Papa Hutton has acted as peacemaker in London, after there were persistent denials of any trouble, Barbara came home to New York in the Winter of 1935 and Alexis went to India.

But nobody believed that all was well with the Mdivanis and a Reno trip was plainly in the cards.

And the fact that she didn't go to Reno just then is proof, too, of what happened between her and Haugwitz-Reventlow, of why she gave up her American citizenship.

Pride is in there. She couldn't bear to break up her Mdivani marriage, which she knew had been so much criticized.

She was willing to make every possible effort to save it. She didn't want people to laugh at her.

So she went back to Mdivani and tried, once more, to make a go of it. She wasn't at all in love with him, and so it might be possible that they could find a way out. His freedom—her freedom—but keeping the marriage intact.

Those who remember that Winter of 1935, remember Babs Hutton, the Princess Mdvani. Her re-appearance in New York was a great surprise but she herself was even more of a surprise.

RUINED HER HEALTH

With all the help of dressmakers, of beauticians, of masseurs, Barbara Hutton had licked the plumpness that made her a fat little girl with fifty million dollars.

She had spent money like water. She had tried in every possible way to be the ideal of Alexis Mdivani, the suave and polished young woman of beauty and exiotic appeal.

But it had taken a toll beyond anything that most people could imagine at that time. She was really and vitally ill.

So, after a brief reunion with her husband, she went to a health cure in Europe.

Now we come to the mystery which even now we cannot solve.

Count Kurt Haugwitz-Rentlow was also at that spa. He was not a man of money and independent means. He had a Danish estate, that is true. But it was one of need.

He loved his land and his country and his estates. But there wasn't much he could do about it. Looking over the honest records, we find beyond question that he had never spent any great amount of money; he had never been a young man of means.

Yet suddenly, at the spa, there he was. Entertaining, giving magnificent dinners, putting on priceless entertainments.

Barbara Hutton had gone there as near a wreck as any girl could be. She was sick, she was in very bad health in every way, and she was heart-sick as well.

There had come to her and understanding that her millions were a responsibility. She had been deeply hurt by her breakup with Mdivani. Something completely different was necessary.

At this health resort, one of the most famous in Europe, she was introduced to a tall, quiet man named Count Kurt Haughwitz-Reventlow.

COUNTESS BARBARA

They were, literally, introduced by a hostess of the famous spa. From then on, the count began to entertain for her.

Dinners were given. Parties were arranged. Everything was done for young Barbara Hutton by the count. Where he got the money, no one knows.

BELIEVED COUNT RICH

Whether, falling in love with Barbara Hutton, he decided to make a great play for her; whether being a man of great ancestry he wanted to win the little Aerica dollar princess, no one knows, but it is a matter of record that he made such a glamorous courtship as few girls have ever seen.

In a few days, weeks, he spent more money than he had ever spent before in his life.

That was one thing. Barbara Hutton absolutely believed when she married Count Kurt Haugwitz-Reventlow that he had an independent income which made her millions unimportant.

She was convinced that he didn't need her money and wasn't interested in it. I know this to be true.

How did the young Dane achieve all that money? He didn't have it, he hadn't had it. Did he borrow it to go to the famous European spa?

Did he mortgage his estates to meet and woo Barbara Hutton? Did he see far enough ahead to know that he would be defeated if he approached Barbara as a penniless foreign nobleman. Nobody knows.

The vital thing is that he convinced Barbara Hutton that he knew what a burden millions could be.

"There are so many burdens and fears and temptations and obligations great wealth puts before you," Barbara Hutton told me, as I think she has never told anyone else. "If you are not very old and very wise, you grow panic-stricken and make mistakes.

"All my life I have had a dream that some day I wouldn't have a single penny. I understand exactly how it feels not to have any money at all, the dream has been so vivid."

COUNT WINS BABS

Count Kurt Haugwitz-Reventlow hit the one note that could win Barbara Hutton Mdivani.

He didn't mention money. He had, it was assumed from the way he entertained, the royal manner he displayed, enough money to take care of himself. And very carefully and quietly he told her how money should be handled.

It was a moral obligation. To handle it was something that needed great vitality, great vision, great purpose. Those who had been endowed with millions, with great fortunes, must take their burden seriously.

They couldn't possibly spend it just in having a good time. They must have serious thoughts and ideas.

When Barbara Hutton and I talked in London I was vividly aware of her care for her husband. It had never concerned her in the slightest that Alexis Mdivani was supported by her.

When she bought him polo ponies the whole world knew about it. When she settled a certain sum of millions upon him, she never tried to conceal it.

But I will tell you this now, and defy Barbara Hutton herself to contradict me. She believed utterly that Kurt Haugwitz-Reventlow was independently wealthy. She believed that he had an income of his own. And she never settled one penny on him. She was through with that. She had learned her lesson.

So, like every other young girl before her, she fell for the count's brilliant courtship.

So Barbara Hutton, heart-sick, body-sick, really in desperate straits over the betrayal of her best and only friend Alexis Mdivani, finally went to Reno and divorced Alexis Mdivani.

And the day afterwards married the Danish count.

MARKETS — BOSTON AMERICAN — COMMENT

HOURLY

PLAY-BY-PLAY IN THE STOCK MARKET

Pivotal market groups were in fair demand today and the market swung from fractions to more than a point higher. There was a small amount of profit-taking but it did not dent prices much. Volume was of moderate proportions throughout.

10-11—Stocks were firm to slightly higher in initial trading. It was rather a quiet opening. Only real feature was American Tel., down 1. Trading became a little more active with oils, steels, motors, coppers and rubbers edging up. Paint gains registered by Chrysler, duPont, Kennecott and Sears. Buyers kept at it and leaders pushed ahead some more. It was another display of strength on small volume. Chemicals were inclined to lag once more. Allied appeared to be the bellwether of the group despite action of duPont. News was scarce and only brokerage reason given for better tone was that traders felt if the market would not go down they might be able to push it higher. Volume for first hour, 190,000 shares.

11—Some profit taking came in and top prices were lowered in many cases. The volatile Wright Aero moved up more than 4 on a small turnover. It received a large order from Lockheed in connection with the latter's English military aircraft. Phillip Morris could not continue its brilliant performance of yesterday and lost a bit of ground. Utilities were given a small whirl. Electrical equipments moved ahead. U. S. Rubber was active.

For six months ended June 30, 1938, net loss was $24,897, comparing with net profit of $2,811,333, equal to $3 a share on common in first half of 1937.

Rail Bonds In Demand

NEW YORK, July 16 (INS)—Domestic corporate bonds, especially rails, were fairly active and firm in today's short session. Speculative rail bonds felt a good demand although interest was not so well spread throughout the list.

Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4½s advanced nearly half a point to 22⅛. Philippine Ry. 4s and Southern Ry. 4s were fractionally better. Great Northern "H" 4s touched 86, up a half. Illinois Central 4¼s and Southern Pacific 4½s improved slightly.

In the industrial list steel bonds changed hands frequently, but showed no great price changes. Bethlehem Steel 3½s were a leader.

Loews 3½s receded fractionally. National Dairy 3⅝s were unchanged.

U. S. Government obligations were quiet and firm.

International Telephone 4½s of 1952 edged up an eighth, while the convertible 4½s were unchanged in early dealings.

Trade Trends Encourage Optimism

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW
Financial Editor

Trade trends revealed during the past week placed more stress on the improvement in sentiment and encouraged a further spread of optimism. Most important development was the rise in retail distribution which Dun & Bradstreet found to be somewhat steadier and more evenly spread.

On the industrial front the agency singled out increased orders for shoe manufacturers and better activity in textile mills and upward revisions in men's clothing lines.

Elsewhere there was not much to report, apparently, since the review found that indications of a definite trade revival still lack statistical support. The situation seems best summed up by saying trade trends encourage optimism.

MARKET ACTION

This writer in his comments on the "line" formation of the dual averages yesterday had figured, without saying so, that the action Friday would bring the market to a point where a near-by breakout was likely.

Possibly it did but the fact is it is never wise to try and anticipate time in relation to the formation. It might go on for session on end. The comments on the line and possible implications of such market action however, remain the same.

Lines usually result because opposing trading and investment forces are very evenly matched. In this instance it might be inferred that those who think trade is lagging behind stock prices are counterbalancing the bullish efforts of those who think the reverse is true.

They could remain deadlocked for many days longer. But whichever way the list breaks it may be safely said that the successful force was the right thinking one. And it will prosper in the proportion to the length of the deadlock.

British Are Seeking Chat With Morgenthau

By WILLIAM HILLMAN

(Copyright, 1938, by International News Service)

LONDON, July 16 (INS)—The British government has invited American Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau to come to London after his visit to Paris, I learned today.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, are anxious to discuss directly with him the equalization fund for stabilization of the currency, financial questions involved in the Anglo-American trade pact, and the solution of the war debt problem.

Britain is seeking also to ascertain the extent to which America could be induced to make contributions, with Britain and France, towards the economic appeasement of Europe by extension of trade agreements with other European countries.

Chamberlain further wishes to discuss potential credits for Italy to appease Premier Mussolini in his demands for immediate operation of the Anglo-Italian pact.

The British want to ascertain the extent of credit posibilities and facilities for Italy in the United States as well as in Great Britain.

Haney Scores 'Folly' of Deal

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, July 16—My question box this week contains queries about the New Deal's future, the gold standard, and the outlook for utility stocks.

Chicago asks: "Granting that we badly need a currency which is free from political manipulation, how would the gold standard work? Wouldn't it have to be 'managed' by some one? Under our politics, who could do it?"

Answer: The gold standard has always required more or less "management." This is true of any sort of standard. Our system of weights and measures has to be supervised and regulated by the government.

The point is that the management in such cases is limited to maintaining and enforcing conditions which allow the standard to be effective.

It does not take the place of a standard, as does the so-called managed currency.

The problem is to limit the amount of convertible credit currency which would be based upon gold, in order to prevent inflation. Such currency must be elastic, and be allowed to expand freely within the limits set by the gold reserve.

It is the failure to keep the amount of credit currency within bounds that has always caused the trouble.

Thus the great difficulty is to maintain a non-political, efficient, and expert authority. Our monetary boards have always been subject to political influences. The gold standard has never been given a perfect chance to work.

This shows the folly of the New Deal. It prostitutes economic policies to political schemes. I believe that Mr. Roosevelt (I mean F. D.) wants to "reorganize" the government so that he can subject all boards and commissions more completely to political control.

Pierce Banker For 23 Years

When Henry H. Pierce, now president of the Merchants Co-operative Bank, succeeded Bank Commissioner Guy of Massachusetts in 1934, Commissioner Guy said:

"Henry H. Pierce is the ablest man in Massachusetts Gov. Ely could find for bank commissioner."

Pierce has been active in the banking business for more than 23 years. Born in Malden and starting his career with the Malden Trust Co., he served in executive capacities with various state banking institutions until 1932.

At that time the banking situation was daily becoming more critical.

There were 18 closed banks in the state and the management and liquidation of these institutions imposed a gigantic task upon the state banking department, in addition to its constantly increased burden of routine business.

DIVIDENDS FIRST

At this time it became apparent that the services of someone were required who had demonstrated his ability to handle large and complex problems, and whose judgment, foresight and experience would adequately safeguard the interests of the depositors. Pierce, meeting these requirements, was prevailed upon by Commissioner Guy to accept the position of supervisor of liquidations of the state banking department.

Under his supervision many reorganizations were accomplished by the banking department and the policy started of releasing dividends first and liquidation to follow in an orderly manner for protection of assets and depositors' interests.

In several cases these reorganizations were brought about by methods never before employed in this country, and which were used extensively in the banking crisis of 1933 when experienced bank advice was so necessary and helpful.

MADE FINE RECORD

Gov. Ely in December, 1934, appointed Pierce commissioner of banks for the State of Massachusetts.

Pierce's success as bank commissioner is now a matter of record.

In handling the most trying banking situation in this country he met the conditions in such a manner and achieved such results that thousands of depositors owe a debt of gratitude to him for his labors in their behalf and the result accomplished.

In January, 1937, Pierce resigned from the state office to become president of the largest co-operative bank in New England, the Merchants Co-operative Bank of Boston.

He was not guided by selfish motives when he resigned the state service to become head of a private bank. He had remained until the banking situation was normal and the major constructive work had been done.

AID TO THOUSANDS

The Merchants Co-operative Bank was fortunate in securing the services of a man who brought with him a wealth of knowledge second to none in banking experience.

This bank, located in the heart of Boston, a $27,000,000 institution with over 20,000 shareholders, and financing over 4500 homes, has shown a continued growth and success in the short period that Pierce has assumed the presidency.

Research of Pierce as chairman of the Cooperative Bank League's committee on advertising and public information is that the 183 co-operative banks in this state have and are continually aiding thousands of people throughout Massachusetts in the habits of thrift and home ownership.

New NRA Plan Drafted by Deal

Copyright, 1938.

WASHINGTON, July 16 (INS)—Blueprints for a new era, entailing governmnt subsidies for production in abundance instead of scarcity, have been drafted by four top-rank New Deal economists for probable submission to the coming Congress, it was learned today.

Anticipating that the impending anti-monopoly investigation will produce grist for the mill of federal regulation of industry, the sponsors hope President Roosevelt will adopt the plan as his own on their representation its enactment will shoot national income above 100 billion dollars a year.

Charge RFC Has Failed On Loans

By B. C. FORBES

A delegation from little business has waited on me to complain about "utter lack of co-operation" on the part of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in lining up loans in accordance with Washington's expressed wishes.

My visitors played a leading part in organizing a body in New York city to aid applicants for RFC loans.

It may be recalled that the offices they opened in a New York hotel were so swamped, so overrun, that the hotel management asked them to move out.

Here is the astounding statement they make:

They don't know of a single loan having been made by the New York office of the RFC.

In view of the figures given out by Chairman Jesse H. Jones that the RFC has been granting loans right and left, it is incredible that not one loan should have been granted by the most important branch of this federal body.

I have written its head, requesting the detailed facts.

Meanwhile, the heads of the metropolitan little business men's association are compiling for this column the actual experiences of applicants.

These will be presented to readers by and by, along with whatever information is obtained from the RFC's New York office.

The fact is that little business is comparable in voting power to farmers, to membership of the American Federation of Labor, and exceeds the numerical strength of John Lewis and his CIO followers.

TAXES! TAXES! TAXES!

"Tax" comes from the Latin, Tangere, which means to touch. The average man who applauds any tax that touches those of a higher income than himself fails to realize he is also touched through UNSEEN TAXES.

One dollar out of every five that the average man earns goes for taxes directly or indirectly.

On every loaf of bread he buys there are no less than 49 different hidden taxes.

The next time he goes to the corner drug store, whether to buy ice cream or cough medicine, remember the proprietor pays 17 federal taxes, 27 state taxes, 34 local taxes, a total of 78 taxes.

If he owns an automobile he pays four cents on every gallon of gasoline he uses.

If he purchases one package of cigarettes daily he pays $21.90 in hidden taxes yearly.

If he buys a new suit of clothes, he absorbs 12 different hidden taxes.

If he pays $400 a year in rent he pays $160 in hidden taxes.

EVERYWHERE THE ALARM HAS BEEN SOUNDED AGAINST THE TREND TOWARD CONFISCATION BY TAXATION. TODAY, BUSINESS, INDUSTRY, EMPLOYMENT AND INDIVIDUAL INITIATIVE ARE THREATENED BY THIS TREND. CONFISCATORY TAXATION IS WIPING OUT BUSINESS PROFITS.

IF TAXATION IS TO BE FOR THE COMMON WELFARE IT MUST NOT BE DESTRUCTIVE.

Boston After Dark

By HENRY L. DAILY

Exclusive:

The thousands of persons who use taxicabs as a means of transportation will be interested to learn that one of the large operating companies has asked Police Commissioner Timilty for permission to do away with the present meter system of recording fares.

HENRY L. DAILY

If the plan, to be submitted to the police authorities July 28, is approved, riding will be at a flat rate instead of a meter mile.

Officials who have already scanned the proposition seem to think that such an idea is not feasible. At present, if one is caught in a traffic jam, say between West and Winter streets, along Boston's main stem, the operator of the car drops the flag—you do not pay for the delay.

Under the new scheme, they claim, you do. Imagine being held up in the Sumner Tunnel, coming from Suffolk Downs, where police one night recently worked until way into the evening hours straightening out the snarl of motor vehicles. Why, one would almost own the cab.

Boston's adoption of this idea would make it the first city in the country to do so. The decision by the police commissioner will be awaited with intense interest by the taxi-riding public. If granted to the present applicant, it is logical to assume that other taxicab companies will copy the same method of transportation.

Exclusive for the Fire Department:

On Monday next, the rank and file of the fire fighting forces of the city will learn that the Civil Service Commission will hold examinations of district chiefs for promotion to the grade of deputy chiefs. Applications must be filed by August 19. September 2 is examination Day.

Lieutenants in the same department will have their opportunity in a competitive examination for promotion to captaincy. Application before August 29. Examination September 6.

Regular firemen of five years' service will have a chance for promotion to the rank of lieutenant in an examination that will be held on September 17. Applications must be filed by September 6.

A Fish Story:

"Jack" Lamb, Texas cowhand, who literally fished his way to fame, is in Boston. He is making a tour of New England, where he will break bread with many of our native anglers. Strange thing about "Jack," he hasn't tasted fish in the past seven years although he has caught 5000 bass. He has fished 5000 lakes and streams and owns a $5000 fishing equipment. His best day with the rod netted him 340 bass, one a prize 16 pounder, fished out of the Everglades in Florida. Not only that, but he has also written six books on fishing. He started work in the oilfields of Texas. Every afternoon he had off he went fishing. If you question this story, Mr. Lamb is at Hotel Statler.

Here and There:

Dr. Joseph W. Devine, well known Boston police department surgeon, is at Onset for the remainder of the summer season. Mrs. D. their daughter, Constance, and the new baby, William Livingston Devine, are "camping" out for a change. Appointments to the state police, following recent examinations, will be made within a week or ten days. Legislative session was given as the reason for delay. "Dave" Cleary, commander of the Charlestown Post, No. 544, Veterans of Foreign Wars, has announced his candidacy for the House from Ward 2.

ROMANCE OF A NEWSPAPER OFFICE—Wedding August 3 next, Catherine Schoffield and William De Large. They covered the South Shore. Will take place at East Weymouth. Another romance—Thomas J. McEnaney and Miss Ann McElaney of Newton. He is a member of the Newton police department and she a nurse at the Newton Hospital—date Sept. 1. All she has to do is to change the L in her present name to an N.—"Joe" Manley and his bride have returned from their honey moon. He was star schoolboy athlete of Charlestown High School.

REPRESENTATIVE John F. Aspell of Roxbury, Democratic floor leader, will be named to the MDC within the next few weeks, by Governor Hurley.

Pay-Hour Head Takes Up Duties

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—One of the toughest jobs in the federal government confronted Elmer F. Andrews today in his new post as wage-hour administrator.

Andrews, who leaves a $12,000 position as New York State industrial commissioner to take the $10,000 a year federal office, welcomed the assignment, however, in the belief that "industry generally wants regulation and will cooperate."

President Roosevelt announced Andrews' appointment at El Portal, Calif.

The new administrator said he would not be a "czar over industry" if he could help it, adding that enforcement would be "by cooperation rather than police power, at least in the early stages."

CIO Sit Strikers Hold Sugar Plant

EDGEWATER, N. J., July 16 (INS)—Twenty-five CIO strikers early today remained in possession of the plant of the National Sugar Refinery Company here.

Seeks 'Prize' Fund for Hall

Part of the "politeness" fund left by the late Samuel G. Davis may be used for a new town hall in Mashpee, according to terms of a petition filed in Suffolk probate court by Attorney General Paul A. Dever.

Impressed years ago by the "politeness" of a Mashpee schoolboy, Davis, a visitor to the town, left $45,000 as a trust fund to be given in small prizes for those well mannered.

The fund has now grown to $47,000 and is more than sufficient to care for the yearly prizes. The attorney general seeks to have $20,000 left in the original fund and divert $20,000 to be used with WPA money for the public building.

Alaska Air Mail Farley Predicts

S. S. Aleutian, En Route to Alaska, July 16 (INS)—Postmaster General James A. Farley today predicted in a radio address on board ship that the proposed new air mail route which will link continental United States with Alaska would be in operation in the near future.

En route from Seattle to Alaska, where he will spend his vacation, Farley said the proposed route would begin at Seattle and would proceed via Wrangell, Ketchikan and Petersburg to Juneau, connecting there with the Juneau-Fairbanks route.

Two Navy Fliers Saved in Crash

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 16 (INS)—Two Navy airmen were rescued just before their plane sank at sea off Point Luma after a forced landing today.

Rescue parties put out from the Naval Air station at North Island immediately after the fliers radioed the retractable wheels on their two-seated plane were struck and a "crash landing" was necessary.

Police Turn Chimp Hunters

NEW YORK, July 16 (INS)—Police added another duty to their already versatile list today—that of chimpanzee hunting.

Jiggs, the chimp, was dead, however. He got tough with the coppers who tried to quell his single-handed riot, and they had to shoot him down.

The chimpanzee, frightened by a rat in his cage at the Brooklyn home of Mrs. Gertrude Lintz, became violent and broke out of the enclosure. When he barricaded himself in the bathroom of the home, Mrs. Lintz summoned police. He fled through a window, scaled down a tree, back up again, through the house, and out over the front porch, with officers in pursuit.

Grazed by a shot, Jiggs became dangerously violent and police killed him in self-defense.

Church Fairs Very Popular

LARGE church fairs are becoming so popular on the North Shore that committee members are hard put to it to think up novel ideas in the way of booths and decorations.

Perhaps inspired by Howard Hughes' flight through all the climes around the earth, the St. John's Church committee has hit upon the idea of having the four seasons represented in their fair at Beverly Farms Thursday, July 28th.

Beginning with the rummage table, located in the midst of a spring like atmosphere, fair goers can journey around the calendar, stopping at the flower and vegetable tables, which will represent summer, and the book table which will be decorated in trappings reminiscent of autumn. They can even enjoy their salad and cake at luncheon time in an igloo all covered with icicles and snow.

Rev. Bradford Burnham and his wife head the committee for the fair, which also includes Mrs. Bayard Warren, Miss Anne Thorndike, Mrs. W. Galbraith Mitchell, Mrs. Frederick Fletcher, Mrs. Thomas McKenzie, Mrs. Gordon Abbott, Jr., and Mrs. Alvan F. Sortwell.

Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. Wallace Goodrich know the ropes so well when it comes to collecting articles to sell on the white elephant and rummage tables that they have been asked to repeat their success of other years. Their assistants will include Mrs. Rufus Lentner Sewall and Mrs. William Endicott Dexter.

Mrs. E. Lawrence White of Lowndshire will be in charge of the luncheon and Penelope Standley will supervise a booth where fair goers can quench their thirst with tonics and ice cream.

While their mothers are selecting flowers, rummage, goodies or vegetables to take home the kiddies can enjoy pony rides, games and an entertainment which is being arranged especially for them by Elsie Sortwell. Mrs. Lyon Weyburn will repeat her good work as chairman of the book table, which has been her job at the last two or three fairs.

One of the most popular corners of the fair grounds last summer was the games booth run by Mrs. Bayard Warren, who is arranging another equally enticing assortment of games of chance. Her daughters, Lily and Camilla, will assist her. Mrs. Harold Wise will be in charge of the pony rides and Mrs. Russell Burrage the flower table. Mrs. Charles K. Cummings is chairman of the vegetable booth while Mrs. E. Sturgis Hinds, Joanna Hoyt and Penelope Standley are others planning various features of the occasion . . .

Tennis Stars to Be Entertained

Ordinarily it is early to bed and early to rise for tennis stars competing in a tournament. But at least once, next week, there will be a late curfew for players taking part in the famous Longwood Bowl Tournament at Longwood Cricket Club. Members of the club are banding together to give a dance for the out of town tennis stars and show them a little of the cordial Chestnut Hill hospitality for which the club is famous.

James Fox is chairman of the dance to be held Wednesday evening, with the assistance of T. Barnet Plimpton, Lytton Dowson, Artley Richards, W. D. Tripp, Jr., and Walter Muther. Others interested in making a success of the party are Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Francis G. Shaw, Jr., and Gordon McKissock who is engaged to Betty Scudder . . .

Ways to Serve Delicacies Of Frogs' Legs

By MARTHA LEE

Vacationists recently [illegible] from Canada have had much praise for the frogs' legs served at a famous Montreal [illegible].

Usually those people who insist that they do not like frogs' legs are those who have not tasted them.

Frogs' legs are expensive but that is not difficult to understand. One frog makes only two good mouthfuls.

We have rather definite ideas on the subject of how frogs legs should be cooked. We feel that they should never be fried in deep fat.

We prefer to have them dipped in crumbs and sauteed in butter. When they are delicately browned we serve them with lemon butter. Others like them poached in a small amount of water and served with a rich sauce.

POACHED FROGS' LEGS WITH SAUCE

Simmer frogs' legs in boiling salted water for [illegible] minutes [illegible] cream. Serve with a sauce made as follows:

4 tablespoons butter
Salt and pepper to taste
1 cup cream
2 egg yolks

Melt butter in top of double boiler, add cream, salt and pepper. Heat together well over hot water, add a small amount of the hot sauce to the slightly beaten egg yolks. Combine with the remaining sauce and cook over hot water until thick. Pour sauce over poached frogs' legs.

A well-known chef suggests numerous ways of preparing this delicacy, a few of which are given here.

FROGS' LEGS, DILLOISE

Cut two dozen frogs' legs in two, season with salt and pepper, put in saute pan (frying pan) with one ounce of butter, and two ounces of bacon cut in small squares. Fry for a few minutes until the bacon is nearly crisp, then add the legs, and simmer for five minutes. Then add one pint of tomato sauce and boil for 10 minutes, very slowly. Add a few dashes of tabasco sauce, and season well.

FROGS' LEGS, GREENWAY

Heat two ounces (4 tablespoons) of butter in a saute pan; then add two dozen hind legs of frogs, cut in two and season with salt and pepper. Toss for two minutes in the pan over the heat; then sprinkle with a spoonful of flour, and toss again, then add a half glass of white wine and one large cup of chicken broth and simmer for five minutes. Then bind with the yolks of two eggs mixed with one-half cup of cream, add a little chopped tarragon, chives and parsley. Serve in chafing dish. Watercress makes the perfect garnish accompaniment.

FROGS' LEGS SAUTE A SEC

Season the frogs' legs with salt and pepper and dip in flour. Put a piece of butter in frying pan and place on stove over a quick heat. When hot add the frogs' legs and fry for a few minutes. Remove to a chafing dish and put a fresh piece of butter in the frying pan [illegible] and pour over the legs with chopped parsley and [illegible] de [illegible].

In case you still have no desire to taste frogs' legs and share our enthusiasm, stick to your halibut steak. Here's a recipe calling for a curry sauce.

POACHED HALIBUT STEAKS WITH CURRY SAUCE

Cut 1½ to 2-pound halibut steak into individual pieces. Cover with boiling water; season with a slice of onion, a sprig of parsley or a few celery tops, salt and whole black peppers. Simmer gently for 10 to 15 minutes, or until fish is tender. Remove fish to hot platter.

CURRY SAUCE

[illegible] tablespoons butter
[illegible]
[illegible] tablespoons flour
[illegible] teaspoons curry powder
[illegible] teaspoon [illegible]
1 [illegible]
½ cup cream [illegible]

Cook [illegible] in butter [illegible] Blend in flour and season[illegible]. Add fish stock [illegible] cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add cream before serving.

YOU CAN BE BEAUTIFUL

Floral Perfumes Are Soul of Sweetness

PART OF the joy of living out of doors in the sun . . . which is mirrored in Anne Shirley's eyes . . . are the new flower fragrances which capture tempting sweetness . . . and add to the exhilaration of long, breeze-swept vacation days. Arline Gould tells of these new French perfumes.

By ARLINE GOULD

IF FOR some reason you can't possibly fathom you've never been called "sweet" . . . if you think it would be pretty nice to hear it . . . though you might have established yourself as the all too self-reliant athletic gal . . . while inwardly you'd like to be the one they sing about . . . "one more dream and the gal is mine" . . . try a new set of tactics with some flower perfumes which are the very soul of sentimentality and romance . . ."

There's no flower on this old earth that hasn't beneath its varying type . . . from sunflower to orchid . . . the tempting honey of sweetness . . .

That is probably the age-old secret why the flower-scented girl is the one of whom people become electrically aware as she passes by . . . and she's even remembered for the fragrance, which can seem entirely personal and completely of her own self . . .

Perhaps the most exciting arrival of flower perfume in a single decade is a new series of floral fragrances by a French perfumer who has a sparkling reputation for expressing allure in scent.

Five prismatic odors—each enticing as the bloom itself—provide for individuality. Though you smell like a flower, you needn't duplicate your best friend's choice.

They're done up in a transparent dome affair, painted with gay blossoms that's poised over a crystal bottle set on an ivory pedestal. So beautifully done is the package that congratulatory messages from all over the world have come to the perfumer. Yet even the around-two-dollar size has the same glamorous packaging!

Mimosa is a scent quite as romantic as the golden flower itself . . . Magnolia is steeped in moonlight and a night-breathing sweetness . . . Honeysuckle is insinuatingly, charmingly naive . . . Sweet Pea is young and carefree . . . and Lilac is sun and rain drenched . . .

There are non-leakable purse flacons for a dollar if you prefer.

To learn the names of these ravishing new flower perfumes by a famous French perfumer, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, weekdays until 5, or write her at the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Don't Sit on Edge of Chair

Don't sit on the edge of the chair seat. You'll look as if you were about to leap up and fly away. That's not poise. When rising put the weight on the foot that is nearer the chair.

Sunlight Hard On Complexion

BECAUSE OF the ravages of sunlight, harsh winds and atmospheric dust, the complexion has a "hard row to hoe." If you let it go its own way, it is bound to look weathered.

There are local attentions that will bring grand rewards: scrupulous cleanliness of the cutaneous surface, light massage and daily lubrication.

Two creams are necessary, one of light consistency like cold cream to use for the removal of make-up and to combat sunburn, and a heavy emollient for skin feeding and to ward off wrinkles. One is for daytime use, the other for the beautifying period before going to bed.

Friction them in well. Facial muscles need exercise and about all they get is the gentle mauling when oily cosmetics are applied. Use an upward, outward stroke so the flesh won't fold. After the smoothing, give your face a neat little spanking. Slap with the finger tips until the skin surface glows.

Bridal Shower

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please inform me if it is correct to give a shower for a bride to be before there has been a public announcement made of the engagement. W.

It would seem inconsistent to give a shower to a bride-to-be before there has been some kind of announcement of her engagement. I do not mean that there necessarily need to have been an engagement party, or a newspaper announcement. The engaged girl need only to have told or written to her friends, or to have worn her ring in public . . . either constitutes an "announcement."

Summer Time Good for Kidney Trouble

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

SUMMER MONTHS are good ones for the kidney invalid because the skin takes the burden off the kidneys to a certain extent. Some forms of kidney disease have been cured by going to a desert climate such as New Mexico or Arizona or to Egypt. Summer climate in the United States [illegible] approximates Egypt so the nephritic may feel more comfortable at this time.

In the diabetic treatment of kidney disease, the principal considerations are to control the intake of salt, fluid and protein. In some cases the kidney cannot excrete salt or water and dropsy results and in some cases there is a disturbance of protein nutrition. When the kidney is unable to excrete nitrogen it is natural that we should cut down the nitrogenous foods in the diet. This means very largely the protein foods such as meat, eggs, etc.

Nowadays the salt-free diet in which no salt whatever is used is thought to be excessively [illegible] and is substituted by a [illegible] diet. It is almost impossible to make up a diet which [illegible] entirely.

DIET IN SEVERE PHASE

In the early phase of [illegible] of severe nephritis a diet as follows is used which is as nearly salt-free and protein-free as it is possible to give.

BREAKFAST: One-half [illegible] toast, one serving [illegible] spoon sugar.

LUNCHEON: One-half [illegible] toast, two-thirds cup cream [illegible] one-half square butter.

DINNER: One-half slice toast, one glass milk, one pat butter, one egg.

Later a diet such as follows can be used with benefit in practically all cases of kidney damage:

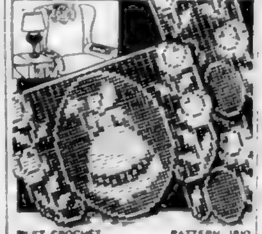

BREAKFAST: Grapefruit [illegible] French toast (dry), syrup, baking powder biscuit with jelly, coffee with sugar but no cream.

LUNCHEON: Brown bread, baked lima beans, head lettuce salad with Thousand Island dressing, stewed fruit, milk.

DINNER: Fruit cocktail, chicken en casserole, mashed potatoes, beet, hot roll and one pat butter, green salad (mixed vegetables) with French dressing, [illegible] and cream, milk.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Ways to Cook Food Outdoors

Hats off to Janet! She makes a feast out of a picnic, a banquet out of a backyard supper—by knowing simple, delicious ways to cook food outdoors.

Try her recipe for roasted corn. Take tender young field corn, strip back ends of husks to inspect for worms. Re-cover corn with husks, fasten ends with pieces of wire.

Now your corn's ready to roast in a deep bed of embers. Cook [illegible] minutes, turn at least once.

Or maybe you crowd [illegible] for [illegible] spaghetti. [illegible] fun to make [illegible] as shown in our sketch at top right. Use wood or metal forked uprights, hang kettles by S hooks from a wood or metal crossbar.

To make the spaghetti sauce—for each pound of spaghetti use 1 large onion, 12 tomatoes (or 2 cans), 3 carrots, 1 stalk celery, [illegible] pepper, 2 tablespoons butter or bacon fat. Poems Give Friendly Cheer

"Every day is a fresh beginning,
Listen, my soul, to the glad refrain."

Like a cheerful voice [illegible] you to a lovely happy [illegible] in this verse by Susan Coolidge.

Other favorite poems can speak to you as vividly. What a brave ring in these lines from Longfellow's "Psalm of Life":

"Lives of great men all remind us
We can make our lives sublime
And, departing, leave behind us
Footprints on the sands of time."

An inspiring faith speaks in this verse from Thomas Brown's "My Garden":

"Not God! in gardens! when the eve is cool?
Nay, but I have a sign,
'Tis very sure God walks in mine."

What a friendly voice you hear in "House by the Side of the Road" by Sam Walter Foss:

"But I turn not away from their smiles nor their tears
Both parts of an infinite plan
Let me live in my house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man."

Such joy in life and love speaks in Christina Rossetti's lines:

"My heart is like a singing bird
Whose nest is in a watered shoot;
My heart is like an apple tree . . .
Because my love is come to me."

What a jolly voice chuckles in Eugene Field's "The Duel":

"The gingham dog and the calico cat
Side by side on the table sat
'Twas half past twelve, and (what do you think!)
Nor one nor t'other had slept a wink."

These poems and many more are given complete in our 48-page booklet, Poems the Whole World Loves. Favorites by Tennyson, Poe, Kipling, Robert Burns, Whitman.

False Rumor Cools Handsome's Love

CHAPTER 23

At the house, the Shannons were all waiting for their guest of honor. The family and Handsome seemed to have a good time. He insisted on taking Mike for a short ride after the dishes were done.

"Tomorrow night we'll celebrate, Skipper. Swell dinner, just you and me, out on Long Island some place! Kiss me! Feel all right now?"

"Yes."

"That's good. Now we'll forget all our differences."

In the days to come Mike wondered if they could . . . There was no grand celebration the next day. At noon, Handsome found Mike while she was having a sandwich in the drug store.

"Look!" He handed her a telegram from his father. It urged him to come home at once. His mother was seriously ill.

"Mike, I should have known when she didn't come down for the series that something was wrong."

Mike had never seen Handsome so completely shaken.

"I'll take the 3 o'clock plane for Detroit. Or I may be able to get a plane for Lansing." He kissed her good-bye in the drug store.

"I'll wire. Will write you tonight, or when I get to [illegible]. I should be back in a week or ten days."

But Handsome was not back so soon. Mike wrote to him every day. He wrote now and then. It was obvious from his letters that things were bad at home.

One morning, early, long before she was up, a telegram came to the flat in Brooklyn. Handsome's mother was dead. Mike, sitting there shivering in the pale morning light, wept not only for Handsome but for the woman she would never know.

That night Mike stayed in town [illegible] Handsome [illegible]. He seemed pleased to hear her voice. She did not go on to Charlotte because when she suggested it Handsome said it was not necessary.

The days crept on. Still Handsome did not come back to Manhattan. In each letter there was something to do, he needed to leave his father [illegible]. But the thing which finally brought him back to town was the fact that his hand was bothering him again. He had to see the doctor about it at once.

IRIS HANSEN!

Handsome was due that week-end. Mike was wild with joy. She had a new coat to wear with her good suit. And she thought she looked well. Her mother had made new curtains for the living room.

Thursday when the [illegible] editions were brought in [illegible] a [illegible]. Mike [illegible] a dazzling blonde who smiled out from the front page. She was very pretty. And above the picture it read: "It's Handsome's Car." And the type explained. "So the Judge Said It Was All Right." Mike read the words a number of times, wondering what they meant.

Iris Hansen of the Inferno Cafe was given a traffic ticket for parking in mid-town yesterday afternoon. When she explained that the car was Handsome Regan's, that she was just doing an errand for the famous pitcher, Magistrate Mellow, a baseball fan, let dazzling Miss Hansen go with a warning.

"If I need extra tickets to next year's World Series, Miss Hansen, will you promise to produce them?" the court asked with a broad smile.

"Of course, I will," said lovely blonde Miss Hansen.

Mike looked for a long time at the picture. It was a lovely conventional face, framed in silver fox.

"I've lost him. I know it!" She could not put the papers away. They had to stay piled there for all who might buy to see. The people around the hotel who knew Handsome and Mike were gossiping again. But Handsome was coming. That would make everything all right.

LARRY RETURNS

Handsome Larry Regan came into town as a conquering hero. Mr. Crisp and Ace received him with open arms. When he put his name to his new contract, he was walking on air . . . in the big money, now!

Misunderstandings slipped away and Mike was perfectly happy. For that week they had many long talks. Handsome tried to explain about Iris and Mike listened, hardly hearing. Iris was no longer important. Handsome loved her. That was all that mattered.

Handsome talked much about his mother. Her death had shocked him indeed. Because his hand was also bothering him again, Crisp and Ace decided that Regan must go south and stay there until the spring training season began.

"Will you come with me?" Handsome asked the day he got the ultimatum. But Handsome knew then what Mike's answer had to be. Jimmie was slipping fast. Her mother's health was breaking under the strain. Both had to admit that she must stay on with the family.

To say good-bye to Handsome, to let him go alone, was one of the hardest things Mike had ever had to do in her whole life. The last night Handsome was in town, Mike tried to keep up her spirits, tried to be gay. But it was so difficult. The old feeling of impending disaster was heavy. There was a [illegible].

Mike wrote him every other day. Handsome liked to get her letters and sometimes he'd wire her. He was at the hotel at 3:30 p. m. and then he would telephone her.

Iris had faded into unpleasant memory. Larry's father was going south for the holidays and Handsome wanted Mike to come with him. But she couldn't. She was struggling to figure where to raise funds for necessary Christmas presents.

Christmas was the happiest one Mike had ever known. If Handsome could have been there, everything would have been perfect. He sent her a leather dressing case with a fitted pullman case to match in deep brown leather.

"Have them marked M. S. R.," Handsome wrote. "They'll be swell for next year."

ONE OF FAMILY

His father sent her a pair of bracelets of gold mesh which had belonged to his mother, then to his wife. They were handsome bits of costume jewelry. Mike was pleased and touched by that gift. She was one of the family. She and Mr. Regan kept up a gay, friendly correspondence.

Handsome wrote that he was going in to Miami for New Year's eve. The holiday meant nothing to Mike. Only a double shift at the hotel. Usually she got through in time to go into Times Square when midnight sounded. She loved that.

At a quarter to 12, she slipped out of the hotel alone, hatless, her coat wrapped about her, ran up to the Square. She stood a long time listening to the din and the shouting as the old year died . . .

She did not hear from Handsome in the next two days. Before her next letter came, the New York papers showed Handsome on the beach in Miami . . . with Iris Hansen. Mike, of course, was perturbed.

In the middle of January, Carol Lee called her at the hotel one noon. "What about lunch? We're going South and I want to see you before we leave." Mike arranged to meet her for half an hour at a tea room around the corner.

When Carol had settled her mink coat, her muff and her handsome leather purse she leaned back and inspected Mike.

"You're thinner and white as a ghost."

"Your imagination!"

Carol shook her head: "If only somebody would ever tell me I was getting thin. I [illegible] that [illegible] of ours." [illegible] this [illegible].

"What?" Mike was [illegible].

Carol [illegible] "You always were a [illegible] Mike. I like you. I'm [illegible] what's [illegible] from Harriet [illegible] and [illegible] some."

Mike smiled. "Let her boast!"

CAROL'S ADVICE

Carol nodded: "That's what Tom and Harriet said at first, but Mike . . . I hate to hurt you, but somebody's got to tell you . . . he's with her all the time, morning, noon and night. They thought it was just one of those things, until they saw the way he's rushing her."

Carol shook her finger at Mike. "I always say when a man lets a girl drive his automobile, that's love. And she's driving his new [illegible] down there. Harriet's [illegible] and so is Tom."

"It [illegible] Carol. I'm sure. [illegible] has been grand to me." She [illegible] about the Christmas [illegible] letters and phone calls.

"Well, he should do something [illegible] the way you worked to [illegible] him through the Series. I [illegible] for anybody."

"[illegible] you're simply worried [illegible] just a great big kid."

"Yes, and he's [illegible]."

"I suppose there will be something in the papers any time about it," Mike offered.

"Yes, and Ace Barnes will be [illegible]."

Mike smiled. "I doubt if Ace will care just as long as Handsome delivers ball games."

It was not until Carol had left her that Mike began to worry and worry. That old feeling of danger ahead!

A couple of days after the papers began to appear [illegible]. There were pictures of Iris and Handsome [illegible] and [illegible]. Gradually Handsome's letters came further and further apart. They were just notes [illegible]. Toward the end of the month Mike had a note from Carol.

They were [illegible] the "low down" on the Iris Hansen situation was [illegible]. Carol explained. "You better get right down here," she advised.

Mike was so upset that she wired Handsome that she would telephone him that night. She put in a long-distance call from the [illegible] down the block from the hotel at 9:30. But Handsome was not in.

It had been a week since she had heard from Handsome. Mike, desperate, called [illegible] Malone's apartment. "Hello." His [illegible] familiar voice gave her instant comfort. "I was just [illegible] of dropping over [illegible] tomorrow."

WISH EXPLAINS

"May I come up tonight, Wish? I have to see you." The sound of her voice told him how worried she was. She hurried to his apartment. When she came in he was startled at the frozen look in her eyes.

"You haven't had anything to eat, have you?" He took her coat and hat and pushed her into a chair beside the fire.

"Wish, I'm [illegible]." Her teeth were chattering.

"What do you mean?"

"Handsome. I've known for a long time something was wrong, but I wouldn't admit it."

"Now that's a funny thing. I meant to see you a couple of days ago. I got a letter from Handsome. It was queer. Somebody tried to tell him you got married [illegible] being engaged to [illegible]. [illegible] accused me and [illegible] of [illegible] the deal. Every [illegible] that [illegible]."

Mike was [illegible] could [illegible] such an absurd [illegible].

Handsome didn't [illegible] it was Mrs. Crisp, who had [illegible] who [illegible] the garbled [illegible] what had happened that day [illegible] Reg.

I [illegible] was [illegible]. Wish [illegible] "I [illegible] always [illegible] around her.

Gay Slip Covers Keep Home Cool

That pet chair looks hot and uninviting these days? Turn it into a cool refuge with a summery slip cover you can inexpensively make yourself.

Like a bouquet of flowers is the cretonne cover in our picture — slate blue patterned in rose, green and white — saucily trimmed with double ball fringe in fleecy white.

Can you really make it well fit? Certainly — if you work this easy pin-on way.

Smooth the material over the upholstery — wrong side up for plain seams. Center the design on back and seat as the small sketch shows. Pin down snugly where the seams will be placing pins about 3 inches apart.

Allow for strains at points of wear, leave a 4-inch tuck-in between seat and back, a 2 to 3-inch tuck-in between each arm and seat.

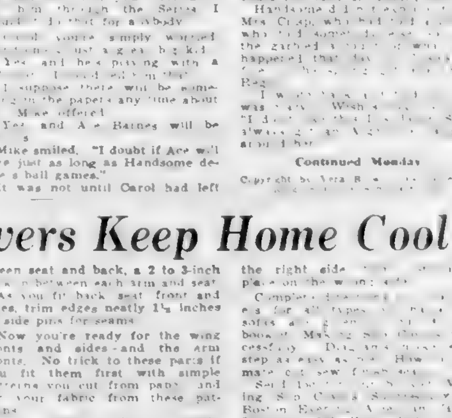

As you fit back, seat, front and sides, trim edges neatly 1½ inches on side pins for seams.

Now you're ready for the wing fronts and sides and the arm fronts. No trick to these parts if you fit them first with simple patterns you cut from paper and cut your fabric from these patterns.

Then basting—trying on stitching. When you use ball fringe insert the fringe in the seams so you'll see only perky balls from the right side [illegible] place on the [illegible].

HAIR LOSS COMES SUDDEN

Alopecia areata is loss of hair in spots. The spots may appear over night. The trouble is supposed to be parasitic. Several members of a family may have it. Hence combs and brushes should be kept strictly for personal use. Few older individuals have this trouble.

Treatment consists of extreme cleanliness of the scalp, vigorous brushing, daily massage. In six weeks' time a soft downy growth appears. This falls and normal shafts fill up the vacant spaces.

The Hearst papers [illegible] commend and often [illegible] from The Saturday Evening Post [illegible] which we reprint today by permission does not seem [illegible] situation, or [illegible] to secure sounder government [illegible] in that esteemed publication.

[illegible] Mr. Roosevelt wants and needs prosperity, and is trying earnestly to bring it about.

So however do the rest of us want and need prosperity and we should try to HELP Mr. Roosevelt in his effort to secure it.

IT MAY BE that Mr. Roosevelt desires prosperity because of the impending elections.

He [illegible] get very far in the elections without prosperity.

Perhaps he wants it for his own good.

Perhaps he wants it for the country's good.

Perhaps he wants it for our good.

But whatever the reason, why put obstacles in his way when he is going in the direction we all desire?

WHY CRITICIZE a man if he is on the right track?

Why [illegible] a man's motives if his [illegible] good?

We are all [illegible] more or less by selfish [illegible].

Prosperity may be good for Mr. Roosevelt. It [illegible] good for us too.

Therefore let us all work together to try to [illegible] and when we get it let us try to [illegible] enough this time to make it permanent.

Mr. Roosevelt has at last extended a friendly hand to business.

That is a wise move.

It is an action long and obviously needed but at last performed.

Mr. Roosevelt should be commended for his action even though long delayed.

He should be congratulated on it sincerely and heartily.

BENEFICIAL RESULTS have been immediately apparent.

Stocks are booming.

Business is improving.

Trade and commerce are developing.

Industry is reviving.

Workers are being employed where before they were being discharged.

Everything is on the up grade where before it was on the down grade.

Is Mr. Roosevelt to be criticized for his part in all this beneficial activity?

Is he to be condemned for his recent greater liberality of view?

MR. ROOSEVELT has made some mistakes. Who is there who has not?

Shall he be rebuked for correcting them?

Certainly not.

Let him be properly praised and applauded.

If he is on the right track now, Godspeed him on his way.

Who, after all, is qualified to criticize him?

He who is without error, "Let him cast the first stone."

And, especially, let us in New England provide the kind of assistance and co-operation that will always promote and never delay the recovery program that means jobs, wages and happiness for so many thousands of our people.

What of Today, Tomorrow?

Lynn Challenges Hub As Trans-Sea Airport

Lynn, in the shadow of Boston, challenges the metropolis to its right to be America's future national terminus for transatlantic air service.

Yesterday Park Commissioner William P. Long offered his arguments why Boston is the logical airway key point in the United States.

TODAY Mayor J. Fred Manning, of Lynn, throws down the gauntlet to Boston and explains why TOMORROW, his city will be the national airport to Europe.

By WILLIAM MICHELFELDER
Boston Evening American Staff Writer

Mayor J. Fred Manning spat on his pencil, smoothed out a crumpled map and, with a pencil point zoomed into the skies a transatlantic air transport, Lynn to Paris.

The mayor said he had been reading in this department about Boston as the nation's air terminus to Europe. He admired such zeal but he's a little baffled over one thing. He said:

"Boston is a great airport. Yet Lynn, which hasn't one, is THE GREATEST POTENTIAL TRANSATLANTIC AIRPORT ON THE ATLANTIC COAST.

"The Boston Airport has a runway of approximately 5000 feet, perhaps a bit more.

"I BELIEVE IF THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT EXERCISES THE RIGHT OF EMINENT DOMAIN OVER THE MARSHES COVERING REVERE, SAUGUS AND LYNN, AMERICA WOULD HAVE ITS GREATEST AIRPORT FOR TRANSATLANTIC TRAVEL. Let me tell you why.

"When I went to the Mayor's Conference in Washington there was some discussion about airports. The general opinion was that the smaller airports because of improved planes and greater DEMANDS UPON GROUND SPACE AND ENVIRONMENT, were forced to close down because of natural inadequacies.

Mayor Manning

"HERE IN THE EAST, BOSTON AND NEW YORK, BECAUSE THEY ARE COSMOPOLITAN CENTERS, WERE OBVIOUSLY SELECTED WHEN THE AIRLINES BEGAN GREAT EXPANSION.

"Today, Boston and New York, while rendering great service, ARE NOT NATURAL BASES FOR TRANSATLANTIC SERVICE BECAUSE THEY ARE DEVELOPING INADEQUACIES.

"I propose that the Federal Government spend $1,000,000 to convert the marshes between Lynn, Saugus and Revere into a GREAT AIRPORT.

"I suggest that the Saugus River be drained, the sludge used for the filling in of the marshes, the elimination of the highway between the two marshes—that is, divert the Boston-Salem road around the marshes.

"COMBINATION OF THE TWO MARSHES WOULD EVENTUALLY PRODUCE A SUPER-AIRPORT, SECOND TO NONE IN THE UNITED STATES. THE LYNN AIRPORT WOULD BE THREE MILES IN LENGTH AND TWO MILES WIDE.

"THERE WOULD BE NO OBSTRUCTIONS IN ANY DIRECTION AND RUNWAYS COULD BE CONSTRUCTED FROM 6000 TO 7000 FEET. THE LARGEST AIR TRANSPORT IN THE WORLD TODAY, INCLUDING THAT OF HOWARD HUGHES, WOULD HAVE SLIGHT DIFFICULTY IN RISING OFF THE GROUND FROM THE AIRPORT ON EXTRA-LENGTH RUNWAYS.

"No other airport in the United States could house more planes. I believe this airport, if constructed scientifically and with an eye to the future, could take 1000 planes.

"The sum of $1,000,000 would not be expensive. The land through eminent domain, could be purchased cheaply. Labor and facilities would be near at hand.

"Lynn harbor is doubly protected because it is adjacent to the proposed airport and able to avoid storms which might disturb a transatlantic seaplane.

"The Lynn Airport would have concrete runways which would be able to support transport planes weighing from 15 to 25 tons, landing on the smooth surface.

"Development of the airport would, obviously, be slow. It would take a great deal of time to provide suitable flood lighting facilities for night landing and an additional drainage system would be required to keep the field in good condition.

"But completion of the airport with the aid of the Federal Government, I guarantee, would make it one of the finest and most adequate in the world.

"Transatlantic service from Lynn would offer not only direct passenger and mail air service to the West, but a short cut to European ports.

"It would be within 12 to 15 minutes of Boston via the Sumner Tunnel. New York is nine miles from Newark.

"Philadelphia, Buffalo, other cities, have NO NATURAL FACILITIES FOR AIR SERVICE TO EUROPE.

"THERE WOULD BE NO DELAY AT THE LYNN AIRPORT. THE PARIS PLANE, UNHAMPERED BY SMALL LANDING FACILITIES AND SUPPLIED WITH A GREAT HARBOR, WOULD BE ON TIME.

"Lynn today has no airport. Lynn tomorrow ought to have the nation's transatlantic terminus BECAUSE OF ITS POTENTIALITIES.

"I BELIEVE IN THE NEAR FUTURE THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT WILL MAKE THIS IDEA A REALITY."

(Another TODAY and TOMORROW feature will appear in Monday's Boston Evening American.)

Listen, World!

by Elsie Robinson

SOMEONE should make a sermon about that Louis-Schmeling fight. As I write the air waves are still rocking with the surprise of the century.

"The fight all over . . . ? Go'wan you're kidding! Why, it can't be! THINGS LIKE THAT JUST DON'T HAPPEN."

Elsie Robinson

Yes, a thing like that HAS happened. And the Sports Boys can talk their heads off about technique and [illegible] but I'm telling you that ring tricks had nothing to do with this particular affair and no wallop devised by man laid Maxie Schmeling out. The thing that took Maxie was FAITH as 2000 years ago a certain quiet young Man prophesied it could.

"I say unto you—If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you."

Joe Louis demonstrating Faith: does the notion shock you? It shouldn't. Faith has exactly as much right in a prize ring as in a temple, and can work its wonders just as effectively. Faith isn't a religious affair or a mystic phenomena. Faith is a natural force which we all may develop and use.

Good People haven't a monopoly on it any more than they have a monopoly on [illegible]. A plug-ugly can use Faith as effectively as a poet or a priest...and it may serve silly and criminal ends as well as sacred ones.

FAITH IS DYNAMITE ALWAYS AND "NOTHING SHALL BE IMPOSSIBLE FOR THE MORTAL WHOSE PURPOSE KNOWS NO TAINT OF FEAR.

This brings us back to that Brown Blast in the Yankee Stadium. Joe Louis had been in that arena before and on that floor.. and Max Schmeling had put him there. Since the day that happened, Joe had been possessed by one idea. HE WAS GOIN' TO LICK THAT SCHMELIN'.

Even before he heaved himself up from that shameful floor he KNEW Schmelin' must go. Schmelin' was in his way. Nothing must be in Joe Louis' way. So he was goin' to lick Schmelin'. That was all. It wasn't a wish...or a hope...or a cherished plan. IT WAS AN INEVITABLE AND ACCOMPLISHED FACT. And because it was already accomplished there was no room for anything else, no fear, no wonder or wavering. All he had to do now was wait.

AND SO on June 22 they met, those two. And Something leaped, and Something struck, and Schmeling was through. They say that Louis got him in a matter of seconds. But they're wrong. Louis never left his corner.

It was Faith that leaped. It was Faith that struck. It was Faith that wiped Maxie Schmeling out!

The Purge Trip

by Hugh S. Johnson

BETHANY BEACH, Del. This column threw one clear over first base and into the right-field bleachers in predicting that Gomer Smith would beat Senator Elmer Thomas in the Oklahoma primaries. It is true that of 443,000 Oklahoma Democrats 65½ per cent of them didn't want Elmer in spite of Mr. Roosevelt's pat on the silvery head of his "old friend"—with whom he is about as close personally as [illegible] the banker's son with the kids across the tracks. But only about 33 [illegible] per cent wanted Gomer.

General Johnson

It was a three-way race and Oklahoma doesn't have any run-off primary any more. Elmer is a minority choice, but his number is up. He is the candidate.

His contributions to statecraft have been a proposal to confiscate 200 billions of private property and divide it up and to use wampum or hokum for money. That need alarm no one, because Elmer really isn't Oklahoma's senior representative in Oklahoma. He will vote for whatever the Administration tells him. It is quite true that "a vote for Thomas is a vote for Roosevelt"—but it isn't a vote for Oklahoma unless the Administration plans it that way.

That is all right, too, if Oklahoma wants to surrender more of her statehood to Washington. Oklahoma hasn't said that. On the contrary, 65½ per cent of her Democrats declined to say that. If they could be added to such Republicans as remain conscious it would seem that less than a third of Oklahomans want to take any more of the peculiarly tangy flavor out of that spicy state.

THE CONTEST for governor didn't add any laurels to this columnist's reputation for political prophecy either. It was close. WPA had its own candidate—Key, and he got 150,000 votes. The old sourdough whom I thought would win, Alfalfa Bill Murray, poked 12[illegible],000. The plum fell under 159,000 votes to Leon Phillips, who will be a good governor. But here again is a minority choice. Only 34 per cent of the Democrats yearned for Leon.

Altogether this Oklahoma primary didn't indicate that Mr. Roosevelt's intervention had any great effect in any direction. He cooed at Elmer, but he also wooed Governor Marland, who was hopelessly licked.

It is true that he kicked Alfalfa Bill Murray in the shins, but he didn't indicate any preference for governor, and General Key, the WPA candidate, was beaten.

THE PRESIDENT'S TRIP, originally planned as a purging expedition, has again proved not only the President's great personal popularity, but also his sharp sense of popular opinion and his prompt acceptance of it as a guide to his actions, regardless of pre-arranged plans. That may not argue constancy, but isn't it of the very essence of democracy?

The Brighter Side

by Damon Runyon

WE ARE mighty glad we are not one of those fellows who are in dutch with Mr. Roosevelt and whose home regions he is now invading. We fear we would be making a spectacle of ourself and the country would be saying shame on that geezer, he is a bum sport.

Damon Runyon

You see we lack diplomacy and under many circumstances courage. If we knew a chap who did not like us was coming into our own neighborhood we would figure he was going to try to make a mug of us and we would not be home when he arrived, especially if he happened to be a chap too big for us to lick.

What we are getting at is that we could not take it, as the lads say, the way those fellows who know Mr. Roosevelt is mad at them, are taking it. We now know that we could never qualify as a member of the United States Congress or even as a governor, because we can see that those jobs require more tact than we possess.

If we were one of those fellows we would probably grab the welcome mat off the front stoop and go down town and sulk in some saloon, remarking at frequent intervals to the bartender, who would doubtless be our only friend at the moment. That it was a fine state of affairs when an outsider could come around knocking a man right in his old home town and look who is doing it.

More than likely we would be thinking up a few knocks in return and you can bet we would have a list of all those ever listening to the visitor so we could get even with them later on. All of which would be most improper and would have the public prints calling us a varmint right out loud no matter how much we might be flattering ourself that at least we were not a hypocrite.

WE LACK the strength of character that would enable us to stand before a gent we have reason to believe might be wondering just where he ought to smack us first and with all our home folks looking on and remarking to each other that we had plenty of gall to be there.

WHEN a fellow does not like you, the chances are you do not like him. In cases of mutual dislike, we see no sense in exchanging bows and we do not think Mr. Roosevelt sees any sense in it either from the way he works.

We will bet anything that he would admire us more, assuming that we were one of those fellows in bad with him, if he happened to go past the saloon and heard us beefing to the bartender, than if he found us at his door, hat in hand, giving him the old castor oil smile and welcome to our city. He would know doggone well that we were no more on the level with that than he would be when he replied:

"I am glad to be with you."

Roach Drops Option on Novel

HOLLYWOOD, July 16 (INS)—Earlier in the week Hal Roach dropped his option on the English novel, "Robbery Under Arms," because the story could not be brought to the screen without drastic changes.

Hal felt that the text of a book so popular in England and so widely read could not be altered without [illegible] [illegible]. He [illegible] giving [illegible] Margaret Sullavan and Brian Aherne [illegible] [illegible] Australian [illegible].

Louella O. Parsons

Geza Herczeg and Jack Jevne have been commissioned to write "Captain Midnight," which will also be a story laid in the period when [illegible] were sent from England to the Antipodes to settle the new continent. Naturally, Margaret Sullavan will not make the picture until after the birth of her baby some moths hence, so that the writers, who have just started on their scenario, will have ample time to finish it.

That [illegible] of 20 years ago, "Three Weeks," by the famous Elinor Glyn, is being hawked around Hollywood. You thought it belonged to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, who made it about 15 years ago with Aileen Pringle and Conrad Nagel.

I reckon M-G-M thought the same thing, but it seems they had only leased it from the author and never bothered to renew their rights. Samuel Goldwyn was today considering it, but it is so highly censorable in this day and age that an expurgated edition would have to be made to satisfy the 1938 censors—even though they did pass it without a cut in the years gone by.

Twenty-six years ago Mary Pickford, then so young she would have been in school if she hadn't had to earn a living for the Smith family, made a picture called "The New York Hat" for D. W. Griffith. It was written by a slip of a girl called Anita Loos and was Anita's first story as well as Mary's first important movie.

The Museum of Modern Art, which preserves the best films made by such stars as Marion Davies ("Little Old New York"), Gloria Swanson ("The Humming Bird"), Charlie Chaplin ("The [illegible]"), selected "The New York Hat" for the archives. Today Anita received a [illegible] a replica of the chapeau Mary wore in the picture with a [illegible] [illegible] appreciation.

Snapshots of Hollywood

The separation of Dick and Joby Arlen comes as no surprise to those who have known that the marriage has not been sailing smoothly the past few years. Rumors current that Betty Grable and Jackie Coogan have made a date with the stork. Randy Scott has been keeping engagements with Gwenna Farrell, but that hasn't interfered with the continuing [illegible] friendship with Dorothy Lamour. Hope Hampton has been chosen prima donna of motion picture night at the Hollywood bowl, August 2nd, a very nice compliment. George Raft and Mack Grey are returning from Hot Springs July 2[illegible] because of the heat and George will continue his [illegible] here. Richard Greene's mother, Katherine Gerrard, well known British actress, arrives here August 25 to help him celebrate his birthday. Frances Farmer and Leif Erickson make no secret that they will leave Hollywood as soon as possible to return to the Broadway stage.

Charges Hubby Locked Her In

Ralph A. Jorgensen, Beverly, made sure his pretty young bride, 21-year-old Evelyn Jorgensen, stayed at home, according to her evidence given in a divorce suit before Judge John V. Phelan in Salem Probate Court.

Mrs. Jorgensen, married two years ago, said her husband locked her clothes in a closet, nailed down the windows and locked all the doors so she couldn't go to the movies.

Jorgensen did not contest the suit, brought on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment. Judge Phelan reserved decision.

Milk Heiress' Death Inquest Is Ordered

TORONTO, July 16 (Canadian Press)—W. Perkins Bull, Toronto attorney, was under subpoena today to appear at the inquest into the death of Mrs. Maybelle Horlick Sidley, 61-year-old heiress to the Horlick Malted Milk fortune, who died at his home July 6.

The inquest was ordered by Attorney General Gordon Conant for July 20 after a conference with police officials.

A private autopsy, performed with permission of her son, William, the day Mrs. Sidley died, found death due to natural causes, from a brain tumor.

The police launched an inquiry July 7, however, at request of the attorney-general, who explained "the atmosphere of the case puts it on inquiry."

Later, Joselyn L. Rogers, Ontario government analyst said no poison or substance had been found in Mrs. Sidley's organs.

Bull, at whose home she had been a guest for about a year, was [illegible] more than $1,250,000.

Handwriting is classified as small, medium, large or very large.

This sample of small writing indicates a person [illegible] very careful [illegible] of words and is usually ruled by the mind.

They are not easy to get acquainted with. They are [illegible] within [illegible] their affairs.

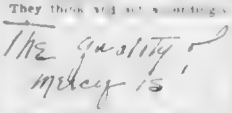

If coupled with [illegible]

Medium sized writing shows a person a little more on the sociable side, gregarious and companionable. They mingle well with others but are usually modest and not leaders in themselves.

They are generous, love material comforts and are fond of praise. Often good judges of character and logical thinkers.

They think and act accordingly.

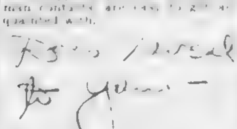

These writers are usually very active physically, their mind and body co-ordinate, they are [illegible] and impatient. Good mixers, have ego and are quick witted.

They show initiative and self-reliance, are usually frank in speech and very generous.

Over-confidence at times develops an ego, which may be desirable or undesirable.

This type is good at making business contacts, are easy to get acquainted with.

Conscious of his "inferiority" he will argue at the drop of a hat and with heated persistence, not concentrating on the cause of things but creates the entire picture of an issue in his mind first and it is colored by his extravagant emotionalism.

His large capitals express vanity and a desire to do things on a grand scale. But he can also back up "bluffs" because he has a strong will.

Besides, his vanity would not permit him to bluff unless he could show "color."

By JACK CONWAY

ALFRED GWYNE VANDERBILT returned to New England today to see his horse Airflame run against a crack field of sprinters in the Tomlin Handicap, a six-furlong event at Rockingham Park.

Mr. Boston

Vanderbilt has $500,000 invested in horse flesh, and is hopeful that one of these days he will come up with another Discovery. The Vanderbilt breeding farm in Maryland is one of the finest of its kind in the world, and one of the colts born and trained there may go on to make new turf history.

Judge Frank Bryan once told me how as a boy young Vanderbilt would be at his farm at 4 o'clock in the morning to watch his horses work out.

Vanderbilt has been more interested in the actual running of races than he has been in the betting end of the game. He never wagers more than $10 on a race, and is more likely to have only a $2 win ticket in his hand when one of his thoroughbreds steps proudly into the winner's circle.

This is typical of many of the wealthy people who own racing stables.

At the Grand Circuit races at Agawam last year it was not uncommon to see wealthy owners present the purse to their trainers. One owner was so delighted with the victory of his horse that after he gave the purse to his trainer he made a gift of two $10 win tickets to his airplane pilot.

Airflame to Face Speedy Field

AIRFLAME will be opposed by a brilliant and speedy field. Included among the entries are Preeminent, The Fighter, Merry Lassie, San E[illegible], Accolade and other seasoned sprinters.

There will be a purse of $4000 added and this condition will cause the rival horsemen to strive all the harder to come down in front.

Racing Secretary John Turner has been very successful in getting the better stables to race at Rockingham Park.

Public Interest in Grove's Case

THE INTENSE public interest in the condition of Lefty Grove is a splendid tribute to the pitcher himself as well as to baseball.

Grove by slow stages has won his way into the hearts of Boston fans, and they are now vitally interested in Lefty's progress as the doctors try to bring him back to the baseball wars.

Grove has always given his best efforts to baseball, and it is fitting that the public should show a keen appreciation of his splendid work.

At the age of 38 Grove has been one of the brightest stars of baseball this year. Without his able pitching the Red Sox would not occupy their present lofty position in the pennant race.

It is our personal wish that Grove may recover the full use of his left arm even if he never pitches another baseball. We also join with Lefty in the hope that his setback is merely a temporary one, and that before many days he will be blazing his fast one past rival batters.

Steve Casey Talks Wrestling

STEVE CASEY, world's heavyweight wrestling champion dropped in to say hello following his workout at Harry Kelley's gym. The powerful Celt looks as if he is in perfect physical condition for his defense of his world's heavyweight title against Jack Shikat of Germany at Fenway Park on next Tuesday night.

I asked Casey how he thought he would do against Shikat.

"I believe I shall win in straight falls," was the quick answer. "I recognize Shikat's wrestling ability and strength, but think I am equally as good a grappler as the German, and much stronger.

"I intend to force the issue from the start, and keep Shikat on the defensive. The German does his most effective wrestling when he is carrying the battle to his opponent."

Casey is burning up over the treatment Shikat handed to Dan O'Mahony and to the German's remarks about Irish wrestlers.

"In justice to O'Mahony, I don't believe he received a fair deal in either of his bouts with Shikat," said Casey. "The German was permitted to violate all of the rules of fair wrestling.

"I shall be prepared for rough treatment on Tuesday night, and I believe I shall be well able to take care of myself."

Random Shots at Target

ROCKINGHAM PARK bettors were asking themselves how they overlooked Vote Boy which, with Jockey Castille up, came home a winner to pay $61.56 . . . Sonny Workman will be up on Airflame today . . . Sonny is one of the top riders of the country, and gets everything possible out of a horse.

Lefty Grove Has Relapse

By WALTER KILEY

Lefty Bob Grove must stay in his hospital bed for another day at least and in all probability will have to remain for several days more.

That was the order issued by Dr. Eddie O'Brien, Red Sox physician, this morning after he had completed another of his exhaustive examinations on the salary wing of Joe Cronin's ace southpaw.

Dr. O'Brien said that Grove's arm had failed to improve during the night, and that his pulse, which had shown to be returning to normal yesterday, was today very faint.

This report brought gloom to the Red Sox camp, which yesterday was cheering when they heard that Lefty's arm was coming around all right and that he would be out at the park to root his team to another victory over the St. Louis Browns.

LEFTY OPTIMISTIC

As downhearted as were his teammates when they heard that Grove would not be in the stands this afternoon, Lefty was just as optimistic that the strange malady, which struck him when he captured his 14th victory last Wednesday, would leave him as quickly as it came.

He is more than anxious to get back into harness and [illegible] regretful that he will [illegible] to take his regular turn on the mound.

PROMISES DOCTOR

But he has promised to abide by Dr. O'Brien's advice and not try to rush his return to the game. For the Red Sox, though just as anxious to have Lefty back in the game, are contented to have the Lonaconing Lancer take his time rather than take any chances with his valuable wing.

Grove's condition still continues to attract attention from all over the country with an avalanche of [illegible] letters, telegrams [illegible] and [illegible] flooding St. E[illegible] Hospital.

The [illegible] never could have [illegible] regard fans held [illegible] I [illegible] this injury, one [illegible] probably write "finis" [illegible] diamond career, to [illegible] sweep of the [illegible] over a man who [illegible] his way into local affections.

Doerr New Idol Of Boston Fans

Fielding, Hitting Sensationally

By WALTER KILEY

Every day is geting to be "Bobby Doerr" day at Fenway Park. The 20-year-old second base flash is rapidly rising to major league stardom as a sophomore. He's well on his way toward becoming Boston's No. 1 idol, and is proving just the antidote for the worry and concern over Bob Grove's haunting injury.

His "arrival" was inevitable. He batted for .341 with San Diego in 1936, led Coast League batters with 237 hits, stole 23 bases and was generally regarded as the best major league prospect in the circuit.

His "Grand Slam" homer over the left field fence scored Manager Cronin, Higgins and Chapman ahead of him with the runs necessary for a victory over the Browns, was his first of the kind and only fitting after a splurge of batting which has amazed his most ardent followers during the Sox eight-day home stay.

During the three games with the Yankees, three with the Detroit Tigers and one with the Browns comprising the present Fenway visit, Doerr has hit at a .519 pace, 14 safeties in 27 times at bat, inclusive of two homers, his second and third of the season, two triples, three doubles and seven singles. Half of his hits have been for extra bases, and several more were hard hit but were muzzled by spectacular fielding. He has batted in the goodly total of 36 runs.

He has [illegible] age up some [illegible] points to just under .290 in [illegible] and his fielding [illegible] making [illegible] which make experts term him a "natural."

His great showing [illegible] can be largely attributed to the [illegible] Manager Joe [illegible] early in the season that [illegible] was his. That [illegible] confidence and [illegible]

Two more [illegible] Bagby Jr. and [illegible] wait for tomorrow's double-header. The hapless Browns have now dropped [illegible] games [illegible] tied [illegible] Yet their pitching, as exemplified by [illegible] and M[illegible] [illegible] their [illegible] homer [illegible] the Red Sox [illegible] opener.

The lower half of the Red Sox batting order [illegible] Higgins, Chapman, [illegible] (exclusive of the [illegible]) longer the weaker [illegible] more than hold its own with the more famous top half of Cramer, Vosmik, Foxx and Cronin. The bottom half has made 37 hits in this home stay of seven games, the top half 36. Pitchers have added four more to the reputedly weak side.

"I'm always slow in starting," Pinky jokingly remarks. "Just let Foxx watch my smoke from here in."

It's most unusual when a team connects for two successive doubles with none gone, yet fails to score. Doerr opened the second inning of the game with the Browns with a double to left. Desautels shot a double to right. It looked as though Bell might catch it, so Bobby wisely held his base, only to be left stranded on third as Marcum, Cramer and Vosmik were being set down.

Joe Cronin got a nasty bruise above the right knee in the sixth inning when he contacted a fast ball pitch off Mills. He later gave over his shortstop duties to Eric McNair. But he will be back as happy as ever today.

Johnny Marcum's lame arm is [illegible] question mark. He asked to be relieved after three pitched innings, each pitch he [illegible] causing pain. Archie McKain took over and did a neat relief job, limiting the Browns to six hits and two [illegible] six innings and getting his second win of the season.

Mel Almada, former Red Sox and Washington outfielder, is leading the St. Louis batters with a mark over .300. He is particularly happy to see Doerr, his former [illegible] roomie, finally going places.

"I alway knew it would be only a matter of time before he got his bearings," the likeable Almada remarks. "He never was plate shy after that beaning."

Night Final Trial At Revere Tonight

By MURRAY KRAMER

With the biggest stake of the year as a goal, the first elimination race for the second annual Boston American Night Final Derby takes place at Wonderland Park, Revere, tonight.

The first four greyhounds in the big eighth race tonight and the top four in Monday's elimination will vie for the championship next Thursday night, which will close the Bay State meeting.

Racing Secretary Bill Fineran selected the top sixteen dogs at Revere for the current season and then had a drawing for the two eliminations. The eight "pups" drawn for tonight are Reba Nell, Linda Darling, Ledmore, Careful Player, Deputy Garry, Elegant Jane, Snow Shoes and Venus D.

Naming the winner of this wide open affair is rather a difficult task. In fact the greyhounds are so evenly matched, due to the uncertainty of Reba Nell, that I'm going against form and naming Linda Darling as the winner of this first elimination.

REBA NELL FUZZLES

Reba Nell has raced only four times this year and has yet to be in the money. If she is right tonight, she's a cinch, but . . .

Snow Shoes figures second best on strict form, but the veteran miss has drawn a poor box. She is in the four slot and would much prefer the outside.

Linda Darling actually does not measure up to either Reba Nell or Snow Shoes but she seems to have everything in htr favor. She has drawn the one hole and is a rail runner.

With Reba Nell in the two box and Elegant Jane in the three, Linda Darling has no worries. Both are slow breakers and figure to give little Linda no competition to the first turn.

SNOW SHOES THIRD

On the chance that Reba Nell is near her top form, I'm naming her as a second choice and taking Snow Shoes for a third. Careful Player, which also has lots of finish, may sneak into one of the payoff positions.

The first four finishers race in the big derby Thursday night and, with this an an incentive, one can rest assured that every "pup" is coming up fit and ready for tonight's race.

Fighting Fox In $20,000 Butler

NEW YORK, July 16 (AP)—Fifteen top-ranking thoroughbreds have been named for the $20,000 added Butler Handicap, featured attraction on Empire City's racing card today, and Trainer Jim Fitzsimmons seemed to hold the whip hand on his rivals.

GOING DOWN

Steve Casey takes a little practice in skull fracturing as he tunes for match with Dick Shikat Tuesday.

Casey, Shikat Well Matched

Steve (Crusher) Casey, world heavyweight champion wrestler, will have an advantage in age over Richard Shikat, German challenger whom he meets at Fenway Park Tuesday night, but otherwise neither will have a physical edge over the other.

Casey has just turned 27. Shikat is seven years older, having recently had his 34th birthday.

"Age doesn't mean a thing in this case," Shikat said. "No athlete ever lived a cleaner life than I have and I am just as good physically as I was in my 20's.

"That Irishman will be badly fooled if he expects me to be a wobbly old man Tuesday night."

Shikat stepped on the scales after a hard drill at Buckley's gymnasium and weighed 227 pounds.

Two other matches on Tuesday's card would make crackerjack main battles.

One is the semifinal between Yvon Robert, former champion, and Roy Dunn, ex-Olympic team matman, and the other is between Felix Miquet, the Frenchman, and giant Hans Steinke.

Finland Raises Money

HELSINGFORS, Finland, July 16 (AP)—A special committee appointed by the Helsingfors town council today voted unanimously to accept responsibility for organizing preparations for the 1940 Olympics. . . .

Authorization of a financial guarantee for the games, if they are awarded Finland following Japan's cancellation, was voted by the government yesterday.

Offer Finland 1940 Olympics

LONDON, July 16 (AP)—Count Henri de Baillet-Latour, president of the International Olympic Committee, said today the committee's secretary had been ordered to forward the official offer of the 1940 Olympic games to Finland as soon as Japan's formal notification of cancellation arrives.

Finland has been informed to this effect, the president said, because a decision reached at an International Olympic Committee meeting in Cairo last spring provided the games would be held in Finland should Japan cancel the plans for Tokyo. The Japanese cabinet decided yesterday against entertaining the 1940 games.

Finland is now taking steps to determine prospects of financing the games, the Count asserted.

Girl, 20, Wins Griswold Cup

EASTERN POINT, Ct., July 16 (AP)—Blonde, 20-year-old Helen Waterhouse of Providence has joined the list of rising young golf stars who have used the Griswold Cup as a stepping-stone toward something more than local prominence.

The hard-hitting youngster won the prized trophy by defeating her hometown rival, Mrs. Fred G. Davis, 3 and 2, in the 18-hole final match of 20th annual Shenecossett Women's Invitation tournament.

It was her first important victory outside of the Rhode Island championship, which she has won four times, and she did it on the same course where Glenna Collett, in 1920; Edith Quier in 1928, and Jean Bauer, in 1934, won the Griswold Cup for their first major golf achievements.

Runyan, Snead In P. G. A. Final

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE, Pa., July 16 (AP)—Little Paul Runyan and Slugging Sam Snead meet today in the title round of the national P. G. A. championship over the 36-hole route at the Shawnee Country Club.

Runyan, the 1934 champion, beat Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., 4 and 3, and Snead turned back Jimmy Hines of Great Neck, N. Y., 1 up in the semifinals.

Maranville 'On Spot'

What's Wrong With Marcum?

Between the injuries which have cost him the services of "Lefty" Grove, Jack Wilson and Johnny Marcum and the failure of his Youth Movement to produce with regularity, Manager Joe Cronin is having his troubles . . . If his arm was so sore that it kicked up just as soon as he threw his first fast ball, Marcum should not have been assigned to mound duty . . . Here's hoping that Old Mose's arm recovers as quickly as it went dead . . . It will clear up a mystery which baffled the medical profession, if it does . . . Ernie Doherty, who was beaten for the state caddy championship by Eddie Stone, is a gamester . . . After being seven strokes down to the new titleholder, Ernie battled back on even terms and, had he been content to pick up one stroke instead of two at the 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th holes, he MIGHT have won the crown.

Rabbit Maranville

Eddie Stone showed that he is made of the right stuff when he came back to win after putting back a seven stroke lead . . . They are trying to fire Rabbit Maranville daily in Montreal . . . The Royals have been a flop, and Rabbit is taking the rap . . . The powers that be behind the Royals are rapidly agreeing that "Rab" isn't strong enough with the big league clubs to acquire any worthwhile talent for Montreal . . . Out of a clear sky, Joe "Tweet" Walsh, the Brookline boy whom the Bees drafted from the Red Sox farm at Little Rock, Ark., announced to Manager Eddie Onslow of the Hartford Bees that he was not in shape . . . Then, Joe packed his bag and returned home . . . Mike Balas, who is out of the game with a bad hand, works out daily at National League Field . . . According to Rod Brown, Jr., the Bald Peak Invitation scheduled for next week will be the "tops" . . .

Clark Hodder, who is the most

logical successor to Joe Stubbs as hockey coach at Harvard, hasn't heard from the A. A. . . . Hodder's hockey coaching is one of the soundest, comparing favorably with that of Ralph Winson, who had no equal in seven man hockey . . . Bobby Knowles, Club golfer, has never seen a professional baseball game . . . The owners of the Montreal Maroons are grasping at any and all straws to remain in the N. H. L. . . . Their screwiest idea is a petition to the Board of Governors to be allowed to play 16 games in Ottawa, 8 at home with the Les Canadiens, and "home" games in New York, Chicago, Toronto, Detroit and Boston.

Berger Hits Hard, Leads Big Leagues

By the Associated Press

While Earl Averill of the Cleveland Indians continues to ride along as easily as you please at the top of the American League batting heap, there's no telling from week to week who's going to be at the head of the National League hit parade.

Averill had an easier time than ever this week, boosting his season average four points to .375 with nine hits in 21 chances, and increasing pace-setting margin to 24 points over Jimmy Foxx of the Red Sox, whose .351 mark took second place by a point from Cecil Travis of Washington.

Meantime, Ernie Lombardi, the Cincinnati Reds' clouting catcher, who had a 20-point margin in the National League race a week ago, continued to hit hard, but couldn't come close to keeping up with the pace walloping Wally Berger set during the week.

This newcomer to the Reds clouted 18 hits in 30 chances, boosted his mark 32 points, and skyrocketed into first place with a gaudy .380 average. Lombardi, winding up with a .368 mark, dropped to second.

Only two newcomers broke into the leading set during the week, and both were in the American League. Jackie Hayes, White Sox infielder, climbed into a tie for eighth with Joe Vosmik of the Red Sox, with .328, and Red Rolfe, the classy third sacker of the Yankees, took over tenth place with .322.

Season records of the first ten in each league:

Sweeney Wins Fans' Approval

CHICAGO, July 16 (AP)—It looks like a good bet that Charles (Chuck) Sweeney, the Notre Dame ball-hawk, will be a starting member of the collegiate All-Star football team which will battle the Washington Redskins August 31 at Soldier Field.

With the national poll to select the college squad nearing the halfway mark, Sweeney has the largest number of votes. His alertness in recovering fumbles played a big part in Notre Dame's successful campaign last fall.

The leaders include:

Guards—Kuharich, Notre Dame, 116,114; Ruetz, Notre Dame, 108,416; Monsky, Alabama, 53,156.

Fullbacks—Davis Indiana, 108,472; Patrick, Pittsburgh, 52,736; Famiglietti, Boston University, 41,693.

Gabby Street Claims Tigers Need Cochrane to Win

By Associated Press

Good morning and is Grimm still managing the Cubs? . . . Note to the California Chamber of Commerce: The Pirates are reported to be toying with the idea of training in Miami next spring! . . . Keep your eyes peeled—the one about Chairman Phelan of the N. Y. Boxing Commish is a pip.

Colonel Ruppert pays himself only $15,000 per year for being owner and president of the Yanks, which is considerably less than some of his hired hands draw down.

Helen Jacobs gets in tomorrow and the first string critics are going down New York bay to hear what she's got to say about her "pheud" with Mrs. Wills Moody—if any. . . . Mr. Harry Danning of the Giants is getting some panning.

WAR IS ON

The war is on, boys! . . . Alabama supporters in Tucson, Ariz., are battling among themselves over the honor of entertaining the Crimson tide on its way to the Coast to play Southern California next fall.

Harry Danning, Jr.

The Italians in Philly went so wild over Tony Galento, they had to take him to Summit, N. J., to finish training for the John Henry Lewis bout . . . "They just wouldn't leave the big bum alone," explained Manager Joe Jacobs.

"Beans" Reardon, the national League umpire, is a wise old bird . . . You don't fool him on these hot days . . . Before going to the park he hunts up a vegetable joint and buys himself a head of cabbage . . . He soaks the leaves in ice water, places them under his cap and then proceeds to enjoy the ball game . . .

Those good-looking Reds have the dolls flocking to the park in Rhineland . . . personally, Miss McKechnie would prefer a little more "sock appeal," but he always settles for the other kind when he sees the attendance figgers . . .

Gabby Street, a smart old geezer, says the Tigers aren't winning because they miss the active leadership of Mickey Cochrane.

John Vandemere

Right now Tucson is one up, for arrangements have been made to have the team work out there . . . It was so hot in Cincinnati the other night Johnny Vander Meer and Dusty Cooke had to sleep in chairs on the veranda . . .

Where did the Pirates get all that pennant pep all of a sudden? . . . Old Tom Clark was the real goat in the managerial change at Jersey City . . . The move that sent Travis Jackson to the Giants as coach may cost Tom (now a scout) a fat cut of World's Series money.

Don Budge may turn pro, but his brother Lloyd, who taught Don most of his tennis, thinks not. How's this for consistency: Marvin Owen, White Sox third sacker, can't remember when he's eaten anything but soft boiled eggs, bacon, toast and coffee for breakfast.

Lefty Gomez says the only reason he didn't take that flight with Howard Hughes was because Hughes didn't ask him.

Wilson Names Bootless Day's Safest Wager

Super John, Labor Day Worth Tabbing

By DAVE WILSON

Selections for Fast Track

BEST BET—BOOTLESS, 6TH

ROCKINGHAM PARK, N. H., July 16—Hal Price Headley's Preeminent, hero of the Fleetwing Handicap at Empire City, and generally rated as the top sprinter this side of the Atlantic, is my choice to win the $4000 added Tomlin Handicap, six furlongs feature, here today.

My safest wager of the day is Bootless.

FIRST RACE

Super John, Casinghead, Bright Melody

Throw out SUPER JOHN'S one start of the meeting. The John P. Grier gelding was pitted much too highly that day. CASINGHEAD, if sent right back, should offer the most contention. BRIGHT MELODY finished a distant second to Gallant Gay in his only start of the meeting.

SECOND RACE

Labor Day, Hunting Ridge, Cash O'Boy

LABOR DAY, a stablemate to the Fighter, needs only to duplicate top New York endeavors to insure brackets. HUNTING RIDGE is the speed of the party and may prove difficult to overhaul. CASH O'BOY is consistent.

THIRD RACE

Grand Light, Mama's Boy, Ghost Queen

GRAND LIGHT, a lightly campaigned three-year-old, is going to stand a world of beating if he runs back to a recent second to Sunny Shore. MAMA'S BOY is vastly improved. GHOST QUEEN is classy, and she may prove real troublesome if recent route tests haven't served to dull her early speed.

FOURTH RACE

Bartering Kate, Victorious Ann, Happy Knot

BARTERING KATE, third to Saunderstown in her only start of the meeting, should experience little difficulty turning back a field of this caliber. VICTORIOUS ANN figures real close on Suffolk endeavors. HAPPY KNOT is the early speed.

FIFTH RACE

Preeminent, The Fighter, Airflame

PREEMINENT drubbed company of this same caliber in the Fleetwing Handicap at Empire City. The Headleyite adds only three pounds and must be favored to repeat. THE FIGHTER hung out a new five and three-quarters track record in his final essay at Squire Butler's plant, but in a previous essay he could do no better than finish a distant third to the top selection. AIRFLAME has a weight shift of six pounds in his favor.

SIXTH RACE

Bootless, White Hot, Giant Killer

BOOTLESS drops a single pound and meets much the same caliber of horses he beat on opening day. WHITE HOT will be dangerous only in the event of mud. GIANT KILLER is a money possibility.

SEVENTH RACE

Kermay, Dark Beau, Fred Tracey

KERMAY is meeting little more than he drubbed at Delaware. DARK BEAU is improving and may prove troublesome. FRED TRACEY needed his last race.

EIGHTH RACE

Sharp Girl, One Chance, Actdine

Preeminent Sprint Choice At Rockingham

SALEM, N. H., July 16 (AP)—One of the fastest sprint fields of the season has been entered for today's $4000-added six-furlong Tomlin Handicap at Rockingham Park. An even dozen fleet stake performers, including several of the best in training, have been named for the event, for which Hal Price Headley's Preeminent has been assigned the top weight of 126 pounds.

A. G. Vanderbilt and his bride were expected here to watch his speedy Airflame match strides with the Headley star, W. F. Morgan's The Fighter, which equalled Empire's five and a half furlongs mark last week. Merrie Lassie, the Wheatley Stable's color bearer, and Don Christmas' consistent Accolade.

Preeminent, considered the best sprinter now in action, loomed as the favorite, but every one of his 11 rivals appeared capable of leading the way to the wire if blessed by sufficient racing luck.

Clocker Bill

Can't see anything stopping Bootless. Winner of six out of seven starts, he should hold the small but classy field he is called on to face, at his mercy, in the sixth at Rockingham today.

Cubs' Pilot On Thin Ice

CHICAGO, July 16 (INS)—The managerial situation of the Chicago Cubs appeared to be as muddled as ever today, although the team's three straight wins over the Philadelphia Phillies apparently had given Charley Grimm another chance to hang on to his job.

Club owner Phil Wrigley had nothing to add to his statement that unless the Cubs perked up and began to play a better brand of ball he'd make some changes that probably would include the manager-ship.

It seemed unlikely, however, that any move will be made while the team is winning and local observers were of the opinion Grimm's held on his job would be on a day-to-basis for a while, or at least until the Cubs show whether they can win ball games under Grimm's direction.

Mentioned as possible successor to Grimm should the squad go into another tailspin were Gabby Hartnett, popular Cub catcher; Tony Lazzeri, Stan Hack and Billy Herman.

BRIDE FIGHTS TO FREE HUBBY

Broken - hearted but firm in her love, Mrs. Edward C. Hawkins, 24-year-old bride of a week, today planned to be in municipal court to aid her husband when he is arraigned on charge of $1283 theft from the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company.

The young wife's honeymoon happiness was shattered when police took Hawkins, who lives on Garland street, Chelsea, into custody upon the complaint of the firm's officials.

The latter claimed the 26-year-old employe of eight years' standing had stolen sums of money for four months.

But she rallied quickly and declared she would remain at her mate's side during his ordeal. She kissed him fervently when she left police headquarters last night.

Police said Hawkins told company officials who discovered an alleged shortage in his accounts he had taken the money in small sums to put up a wealthy "front."

He desired to be known as a man of means, police said they were told, and could not give the right impression with his $24-a-week salary.

"All I want is a chance to pay the money back," he was quoted as saying.
